TRAGEDIE

of King Richard

Conteining his treacherous Plots against his brother
Clarence: the pittifull murther of his innocent Nephewes: his tyrannicall vsurpation: with the whole course of his deterted life, and course most deserved death.

As it hath bene lately Acted by the Right Honomrable 1827. the Lord Chamberlaine bis fernants.

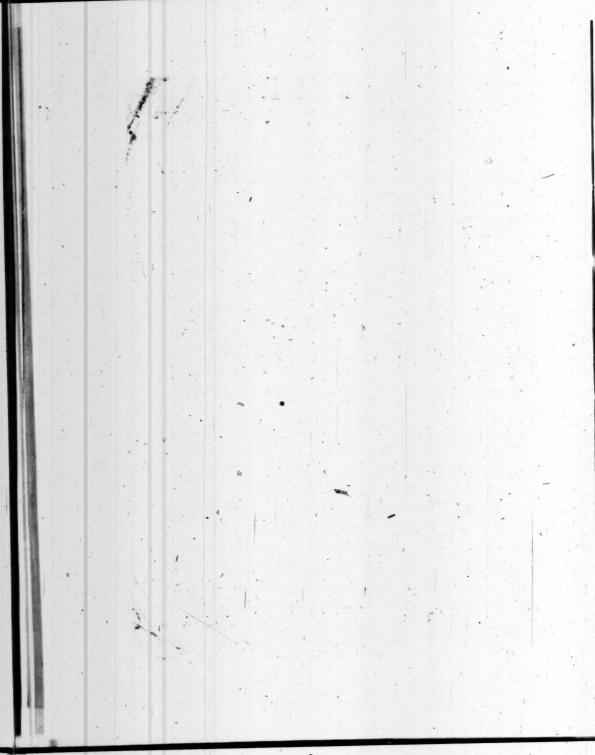

Newly augmented,

By William Shakefpeare.

Printed by Thomas Creede, for Andrew Wife; dwelling in Paules Church-yard, at the figne of the Angell, 1602.

Phot of HEH 69354

Enter Richard Duke of Glocest er, solus.

Ow is the winter of discontent, Made glorious fommer by this sonne of Yorke: And all the cloudes that lowed voon our house, In the deepe bosome of the Ocean buried. Now are our browes bound with victorious wreathes, Our bruiled armes hung vp for monuments, Our iterne alarums change to merry meetings, Our dreadfull marches to delightfull measures. Grim-visagde warre, harh smoothde his wring led front, And now in flead of mounting barbed fleeds, To fright the foules of fearefull adversaries. He capers nimblie in a Ladies chamber, To the lascimous pleasing of a Lour. But I that am not shapte for sportiue trickes, Nor made to court an amorous looking glaffe, I that am rudely stampt, and want loues maiestie To ftrut before a wanton ambling Nymph: I that am curtaild of this faire proportion, Cheated of feature by diffembling nature, Deformd, vnfinisht, sent before my time Into this breathing world halfe made vp, And that so lamely and vnfashionable, That dogs barke at me as I halt by them: Why I in this weake piping time of peace Have no delight to paffe away the time, Vnleffe to fpie my fhadow in the Sunne, And descant on mine owne deformitie: And therefore fince I cannot proue a louer To entertaine these faire well spoken daies. I am determined to proue a villaine, And hate the idle pleasures of these daies: Plots have Ilaid, inductions dangerous.

The Tragedie nken prophelies, libels and dreames ofet my brother Clarence and the king, in deadly hate the one against the other, And if king Edward be as true and inft As I am subtile, false, and trecherous: This day should Clarence closely be mewed up. About a prophetie which faies that G. Of Edwards heires the murtherer fall bee. Dive thoughts downe to my foule, Enter Clarence with Here Clarence comes, a guard of men. Brother, good dayes, what meanes this armed guard That waites vpon your grace? Cla. His maieftie tendering my persons lafetie hath ap-This conduct to convey me to the Tower. (pointed Glo. V pon what cause? Cle. Because my name is George. Glo. Alack my Lord, that fault is none of yours, He should for that commit your godfathers: O belike his majestie hath some intent That you shall be new christned in the Tower. But what is the matter Clarence may I know? Cla. Yea Richard when I know, for I proteft As yet I do not, but as I can learne, He harkens after prophecies and dreames, And from the croffe rowe plucker the letter G: And faies a wizard told him that by G, His iffue difinherited should be-And for my name of George begins with G. It followes in his thought that I am he, Thefe as I learne, and such like toyes as thefe, Have moved his highneffe to commit me now. Gio, Why this it is when men are rulde by women. Tis not the king that fends you to the Tower. My Lady Gray his wife, Clarence tis the That temps him to this extremitie : Was it not the and that good man of worthin Anthony Wooduile ber brother there, That made him fend Lord Hallings to the towers From whence this pacient day he is delinered & We are not fale Clarence, we are not fale,

of Richardene shad,

But the Queents landred, and might-walking Heralds. M.
That trudge betwixt the King and Miltrelle Shores 101
Heard ye not what an humble suppliant
Lord Hastings was to het for his delinerie?

Glo. Humbly complaining to her deitie,
Got my Lord Chamberlaine his libertie.
Ile tell you what, I thinke it is our way,
If we will keepe in fanour with the king,
To be her men, and weare her livery.
The icalous oreworne widow and her felfe,
Since that our brother dubd them gentlewomen,
Are mightie goffips in this monarchy.

Bro. I befeech your Graces both to pardo me:
His maieffie hath straightly given in charge,
That no man shall have private conference,
Of what degree some with his brother.

You may partake of any thing we say:
We speake no treason man, we say the king.
Is wise and vertuous, and his noble Queene.
We say that Shores wife bath a pretie foote.
A cherry lip, a bonny eye, a passing pleasing tongue:
And that the Queenes kindred are made gentle folkes.
How say you sir, can you deny all this?

Bro. With this (my Lord) my felfe have naught to do.

Glo. Naught to do with Multreffe Shore, I tell thee fellow,

He that doth naught with her, excepting one,

Were best he do it feetetly alone.

Bro. What one my Lord?

Gio. Her hu band knaue, wouldle thou betray me?

Bro. I befeech your Grace to pardon me, and withall forYour conference with the noble Duke, beare

Cla. We know thy charge Broken bury, and will obey.

Brother fare well will wrote the Kings Andwhatfocuer you will proper me in a sail and Were it to call King adwards widow fifter.

I will

The Tragedie I will performe it to infratichile you. Meane time this deepe diffrace in brotherhood Touches me deeper then you ean imagine. Cla. I know it pleafeth neither of vs well, Glo. Well, your imprisonment thal not be long, I will deliner you, or lie for you, Meane time have patience. Cla. I must perforce, farewell. Exit Cla. Gio. Go tread the path, that thou fhalt nere returne, Simple plaine Clarence, I do loue thee fo, That I will shortly fend thy foule to heaven, If heaven will take the present at our hands: But who comes here, the new delivered Haftings ? Enter Lord Haftings. Haft. Good time of day vnto my gracious Lord. Glo. As much vnto my good Lord Chamberlaine: Well are you welcome to this open aire, How hath your Lordship brookt imptisonment? Haft. With patience (noble Lord) as prisoners must: But I shall live my Lord to give them thankes, That were the cause of my imprisonment. Glo. No doubt, no doubt, and fo shall Clarence too, For they that were your enemies are his, And have prevailed as much on him as you. Haft. More pittie that the Eagle should be mewed, While kites and buzars prey at libertie. Glo. What newes abroad?

Hall. No newes so bad abroad, as this at home: The king is fickly, weake and melancholy.

And his Philitions feare him mightily.

Glo. Now by Saint Paul this news is bad indeed,
Oh he hath kept an earli diet long,
And overmuch confumed his royall person,
Tis very greenous to be thought vpon.
What is he in his bed?

Haft. Heis.

Gio. Goe you before, and I will follow you. Exit, Haft.
He cannot live I hope, and must not die
Till George be packet with post horse vp to heaven.
Ile in to vrge his hatred more to Clarence. Win

With Ives well steeld with weightie arguments. And if I fayle not in my deepe intent, Clarence hath not another day to line : Which done, God take K. Ed and to his mercy, And leave the world for me to buffell in : For then Ile marry Warwicks youngest daughter. What though I kild her husband and her fathers The readiest way to make the wench amends. Is to become her husband and her father: The which will I, not all to much for love, As for another fecret close intent, By marrying her which I must reach vnto: But yet I run before my horse to market: Clarence still breathes, Edward Still lives and raignes, When they are gone, then must I count my gaines. Enter Laydy Anne, with the hear fe of Harry the 6.

Lady Anne. Set downe, fet downe your honourable Lord, If honour may be throwded in a hearfe, Whilest I a while obsequiously lament The vntimely fall of vertuous Lancaster. Poore kei-cold figure of a holy King, Pale ashes of the house of Lancaster, Thou bloodles remaint of that royall blood. Be it lawfull that I inuocate thy ghoft, To heare the lamentations of poore Anne, Wife to thy Edward, to thy flanghtred fonne, Stabd by the selfesame hands that made these holes: Loe, in these windowes that let foorth thy life, I powre the helpeleffe balme of my poore eyes. Curft be the hand that made the fatall holes. Curst be the heart that had the heart to do it. More direful hap betide that hated wretch, That makes vs wretched by the death of thee: Then I can wish to adders, spiders, toads, Or any creeping venomde thing that lives. If ever he have child, abrotine be it, Prodigeous and vntimely brought to light: Whole vgly and vnnaturall aspect May fright the hopefull mother at the view.

The Tragedie

If ever he have wife, let her be made

As miferable by the death of him,

As I am made by my poore Lord and thee.

Come now towards Chertily with your holy load

Taken from Paules to be interred there:

And still as you are awearie of the waight,

Rest you whiles I lament King Henries coarse.

Enter Gloster.

Glo. Stay you that beare the corfe, & fet it down. La, What blacke magitian coniu es vp this fiend To stop deuoted charitable deeds? Glo. Villaine, fet downe the coarfe, or by S. Paul, He make a coarle of him that disobeyes. Gen. My L, stand backe and let the coffin passe. Glo. V nmanerd dog, fland thou when I command, Aduance thy Halbert higher then my breft, Or by Saint Paule lle ftrike thee to my foote, And spurne upon thee begger for thy boldner. La. What do you tremble, are you all afraid? Alas, I blame you not for you are mortall, And mortall eyes cannot endure the diucl. A uant thou dreadfull minister of hell, Thou hadft but power over his mortall bodie, His foule thou canst not have, therefore be gone. Gio. Sweet Saint, for charitie, be not fo cuift.

Le. Foule diuell, for Gods sake hence and trouble vs not, For thou hast made the happy earth thy hell:
Fild it with cursing cryes, and deepe exclaimes.
If thou delight to view thy hainous decds,
Behold this patterne of thy butcheries.
Oh Gentlemen see, see dead Henries wounds,
Open their congeald mouths and bleed afresh.
Blush, blush, thou sumpe of soule deformitie,
For tis thy presence that exhales this blood
From cold and emptie vey nes where no blood dwels.
Thy deed inhumane and vanaturall,
Oh God, which this blood madest, reuenge his deaths
Oh earth which this blood drinkst, reuenge his deaths
Either heaven with lightning strike the murtherer dead,

Or earth gape open wide, and eate him quicke. As thou doeft (wallow up this good kings blood, Which his Hel-gouernd arme hath butchered.

Glo, Ladie, you known or rules of charitie, Which renders good for bad, bleffings for curfes.

La. Villaine, thou knowst no law of God nor man: No beast so fierce, but knowes some touch of pittie.

Glo. Bur I know none, and therefore am no beaft,

La. Oh wonderfull when deuils tell the truth.

Glo. More wonderfull when Angels are lo angry.
Vouchfale divine perfection of a woman,
Of the fe tupposed exists to give me leave.

Of these supposed earls to give me leave, By circumstance but to acquire my selfe.

La. Vouchlafe defuled infection of a man, For these knowne early but to give me leave, By circumstance to curse thy cursed selfe.

Glo, Fairer then tongue can name thee, let me haue Some parient leifure to excuse my selfe.

La. Fouler then heart can thinke thee, thou canst make

No excuse currant, but to hang thy selfe.

Gio. By such dispaire I should accuse my selfe.

La. And by disparing shoulds thou stand excuse,

For doing worthy vengeance on thy felfe, Which didl't vnworthy flaughter vpon others.

Glo. Say that I flew them not.

La. Why then they are not dead:
But dead they are, and diuchth flaue by thee.

Gle. I did not kill your husband.

La. Why then he is alive.

Gio. Nay, he is dead and flaine by Edwards hand.

La. In thy foule throat thou lyeft, Queene Margret faw
Thy bloodly faulchion fin king in his blood,
The which thou once didit bed against her breft.

But that thy brother beat aside the poynt.

Glo, I was prouoked by her flaunderous tongue Which laid their guilt vpon my guiltleffe shoulders.

Which never dreamt on ought but butcheries.

Didft thou not kill this king?

Gio. I grant yec.

B

THE TRACERIE

La. Doest graunt me hedgehog, then God grant me too Thou maiest be damned for that wicked deed. Oh he was gentle, milde and vertuops.

Gio. The fitter for the king of heaven that hath him. La. He is in heaven, where thou thale never come.

Glo. Let him thanke me that holpe to fend him thither, For he was fitter for that place then earth.

La, And thou vnfit for any place but hell.

Glo. Yes one place elfe, if ye will heare me name it.

La. Some dungeon. Gio. Your bed-chamber.

La. Ill rest betide the chamber where thou itel

Glo. So will it Madame, till I lie with you.

La. Thope lo.

Glo. I know fo, but gentle Ladie Anne, To leave this kind incounter of our wirs, And tall tomewhat into a flower methode: Is not the causer of the timelelle deaths Of these Plantagenets, Henry and Edward, As blamefull as the executioner?

La Thou are the cause, and most accurst effect. Glo. Your beautie wasthe cause of that effect. Your beautie which did haunt me in my fleepe,

To vindestake the death of all the world. So I might rest one house in your facet bosome.

La. If I thought that, I tell thee homicide, Thefe nailes should rend that beautie from my cheekes. Glo. Thele eies could neuer endure tweet beauties wrack. You should not blemish them if I stood by: As all the world is cheared by the Sunne.

So I by that, it is my day, my life. La. Black night oues shade thy day, and death thy life. Glo. Curse not thy selfe faire creature, thou art both.

La. I would I were to be reuengde on thee.

Glo. It is a quarrell most vnnaturall, To be revenge on him that loveth you,

La. It is a quarteli suft and reasonable, To be revenged on him that flew my husband.

Glo. He that bereft thee Lady of thy husband,

Diditto helpe thee to a better husband.

La. His better doth not breath upon the earth,

Glo. Go too, he lives that loves you better then he could.

La. Name him. Glo. Plantagenet.

La. Why what was he?

Gio. The felfe fame name, but one of better nature.

La. Where is her

She Bitteth at him. Glo. Heere.

Why doeft thou fpit at mee?

La. Would it were mortall poyfon for thy fake.

Glo. Neuer came poylon from fo fweet a place.

La. Neuer hung poylon on a fowler toade, Out of my fight, thou doeft infect my eies.

Gio. Thine eies (weet Lady have infected mine.

La. Would they were Basiliskes to strike thee dead.

Glo. I would they were that I might die at once,

For now they kill me with a living death.

Those eies of thine, from mine have drawne falt teares, Shamed their afpect with store of childish drops:

I never fued to friend nor enemie,

My tongue could never learne (weete foothing words:

But now thy beautie is proposed my fee:

My proud heartfues, and prompts my tongue to speake.

Teach not thy lips such scorne, for they were made

For kifting Lady, not for fuch contempt,

If thy revengefull heart cannot forgive,

Loe here I lend thee this sharpe pointed sword,

Which if thou please to hide in true this bosome,

And let the foule forth that adoreth thee :

I laie it naked to the deadly ftroke,

And humbly beg the death vpon my knee-

Nay, do not pawie, twas I that kild your husband,

But twas thy beautie that prouoked me:

Nay now dispatch, twas I that kild king Henry,

But twas thy heavenly face that fet me on : Here fee lets fall

Take vp the fword againe, or take vp me. the (word.

La. Arise dissembler, though I wish thy death, I will not be the executioner,

Glo. Then bid me kill my felfe, and I will do it.

La. I haue alreadie.

Glo B 2

The Tragedie

Glo, Tush, that was in the rage:

Speake it againe, and even with the word,

That hand which for thy Love did kill thy love,
Shall for thy love kill a farre truer love:

To both their deaths thou shalt be accessarie.

La. I would I knew thy heart.
Glo. Tis figured in my tongur.
La. I feare me both are false.

Glo. Then never man was true.

La. Well, well, put vp your fword.
Glo. Say then my peace is made.

La. That shall you know hereafter.

Glo. But I shall hue in hope. La. Ali men I hope hue so.

Gle. Vouchlafe to weare this ring.

La. To take is not to give.

Gol. Looke how this ring incompasseth thy finger, Euen so thy breast incloseth my poore heart. Weare both of them, for both of them are thine: And if thy poore suppliant may But begone fauour at thy gracious hand, Thou doest confirme his happinesse for ever:

La. Wat is it?

Gio. That it would please thee leave these sad designes,
To him that hath more cause to be a mourner:
And presently repaire to Crosbie place.
Where after I have solcmnely enterred
At Chertsie Monestariethis noble King,
And wet his grave with my repentant teares,
I will with all expedient duetie see you:
For divers wiknowne reasons, I beseech you
Graunt me this boone.

La. With all my heart, & much it ioyes me too.
To fee you are become so penitent:
Treffill and Bartley, go along with me.

Glo. Bid me farewell.

La. Tis more then you deserve:
But fince you teach me how to flatter you.
Imagine I haue sayd farewell already.

Glo. Sirs, take vp the corfe. Ser. Towards Chertie noble Lord? Glo. No : to White Fryers: there attend my comming. Was ever woman in this humor woed? Exeunt. Manes Gio. Wasever woman in this humour wonne ? Ile haue her, but I will not keepe her long. What I' that kild her husband & her father, To take her in her hearts extreamed heate: With curses in her mouth teares in her eyes, The bleeding witnesse of her hatred by : Having God, her conscience, and these barres against mee, And I nothing to backe my fute withall But the plaine Diuell and dissembling lookes, And yet to win her all the world to nothing. Hah? Hath the forgot alreadie that braue Prince Edward, her Lord, whom I some three months since Stabd in my angry mood at Tewnbury? A sweeter and a louelier gentleman, Framd in the prodigalitie of nature: Yong, valiant, wife, and no doubt right royall, The spacious world cannot againe affoord. And will thee yet debale her eyes on me, That cropt the golden prime of this sweete Prince. And made her widdow to a wofull bed ? On me, whole al not equals Edwards monty, On me that halt, and am vnihapen thus? My Dukedome to a beggerly denice. I do mistake my person all this while. Vpon my life the finds, although I cannot My felfe, to be a maruailous proper man. He be at charges for a Looking glaffe, And entertaine some score or two of tailors To study fashions to adore my body, Since I am crept in fauour with my felfe. I will maintaine it with a little coft. But first Ile turne yon fellow in his grave, And then returne lamenting to my loue. Shine out faire funne, till I have bought a glaffe, That I may fee my shaddow as I passe. Exit.

Enter

The Tragedie

Enter Queene, Lord Riners, and Gray.

Ri. Haue patience Madame, ther's no doubt his maiestie
Will soone recourt his accustomed health.

Gray. In that you brooke it ill, it makes him worfe, There fore for Gods lake enterraine good comfort, And cheare his grace with quicke and merry words.

Qn. If he were dead, what would betide of me?
Rs. No other harme but lolle of fuch a Lord.

24. The loffe of fuch a Lord includes all harme.

Gray. The heavens have bleft you with a goodly forme, To be your comforter when he is gone.

24. Oh he is yong, and his minoritie Is put vnto the trust of Rich-Glocester, A man that loues not me, nor none of you.

Ri. Is it concluded he shall be Protector?

But so it must be if the king miscarrie. Enter Buck, Darly.
Gr. Here comes the Lords of Buckingham and Darty.

Buc. Good time of day vnto your royall grace.

Day. God make your maiestie ioysull as you have bene.

2n. The Countesse Richmond good my Lo. of Darby
To your good praiers will scarcely say, Amen:

Yes Darby possessible disconnections.

Yet Darby, notwithstanding shees your wife, And loues not me, be you good Lord assured I hate not you for her proud arrogancie.

Dar. I befeech you either not beleeue
The enuious flaunders of her accusers,
Or if the be accused in true report,
Beare with her weaknesse, which I thinke proceeds
From wayward sicknesse, and no grounded malice.

Ri. Saw you the king to day my Lord of Darbie?

Dar. But now the Duke of Buckingham and I,

Came from visiting his maiestie.

2.1. What like shood of his amendment Lords?

Bue. Madame, good hope, his grace speakerh chearfully.

Qu. God graunt him health, did you confer with him?

Bue. Madame we did: He desires to make attonoment

Betwixt the Duke of Glocester and your brothers.
And between them, and my Lord Chamberlaine,

And

And fent to warne them to his royall prefence. Qu. Would all were well, but that will never be, Emer Glocefter: I feare our happinelle is at the highest. Glo. They do me wrong, and I will not endure it. Who are they that complaines vnto the king? That I forfooth am sterne and lone them not: By holy Pani they love his grace but lightly That fill his eares with fuch discentious rumors: Because I cannot flatter and speake faire, Smile in mens faces smooth-deceine and cog, Ducke with French nods, and apith courtefie, I must be held a rankerous enemie. Cannot a plaine man live and thinke no harme, But thus his simple truth must be abuide, By filken flie infinuating lackes? Ri, To whom in all this prefence speakes your grace?

Ri. To whom in all this prefence speakes your grace.

Glo. To thee, that hast nor honestie nor grace.

When have I injured thee, when done thee wrong,

Or thee, or thee, or any of your faction?

A plague wpon you all. His royall person

(Whom God preserve better then you would wish)

Cannot be quiet scarce a breathing while,

But you must trouble him with lewde complaints.

Qu. Brother of Glocester, you missake the matter:
The king of his owne royall disposition,
And not prouokt by any surerelle.
Ay ming belike at your interiour hatred,
Which in your outward actions shewes it selfe,
Against my kinred, brother, and my selfe:
Makes him to send, that thereby he may gather
The ground of your ill will, and to remoue it.
Glo. I cannot tell, the world is growne so bad.

That Wrens may prey where Eagles dare not pearch, Since euery lacke became a gentleman, There's many a gentle person made a lacke.

On. Come, come, we know your meaning brother Glo.
You enuie mine advancement and my friends,
God graunt we never may have need of you.

Gio. Meane time, God grant that we have need of you.

Our

Our brother is impulsoned by your incanes,
My felfe differed, and the Nobilitie
Held in contempt, whilst many faire promotions
Are dayly given to enoble those,
That scarce some two dayes since were worth a noble,

P. By him that railde meto this carefull height,
From that contented hap which I enjoyd,
I neuer did incense his Maiestie
Against the Duke of Clarence: but have beene
An earnest advocate to pleade for him.
My Lord, you do me shamefull injurie,
Falsely to draw me in these vile suspects.

Glo, You may denie that you were not the cause, Of my Lord Hastings late imprisonment,

Ren. She may my Lord.

Glo. She may, L. Rivers, why who knowes not to the She may doe more firthen denying that the She may helpe you to many faire preferences, And then denie ber ayding hand therein.

And lay those honours on your high deserts, What may the note the may, year marrie may the.

Ris. What marry may the f Glo. What marry may the f marry with a King A batcheler, a handlome stripling too. Iwis your Grandam had aworf or match.

2. My L, of Glocelter, I have too long borne
Your blunt vpbraidings, and your bitter (coffes,
By heaven I will acquaint his Maiestie,
With those groffe taunts I often have endured,
I had rather be a countrey servant mayd,
Then a great Queene with this condition,
To be thus taunted, scorned, and baited at: Enter 2n.
Small ioy have I in being Englands Queen.

Margres.

2. Mar. And lessed be that small, God I beseech thee.

Thy honour, state, and seate is due to me.

Glo, What threat you me with telling of the King?

Tell him and spare not, looke what I sayd,

I will suouch in presence of the King:

Tis time to speake, my paynes are quite forgot.

2.Mir

Qu. Mar. Out divel, I remember them too well, Thou slewest my husband Henry in the Tower, And Edward my poore sonne at Teuxburie.

Gio. Ere you were queene, yea or your husband king, I was a pack-horse in his great affaires.

A weeder out of his proud aduersaries,

A liberall rewarder of his friends:

To revalize his blood I spile mine owne.

Qu.Mar. Yea, and much better blood, then his or thine.
Glo. In all which time, you and your husband Gray,
Were factious for the house of Lancanster:
And Rivers, so were you. Was not your husband
In Margarets battale at Saint Albons slaine?
Let me put in your mindes, if yours forget
What you have been ere now, and what you are:

What you have bene ere now, and what you are:
Withall, what I have bene, and what I am
9n. Mar. A murtherous villaine, and (o ftill thou are.

Gio. Poore Clarence did forfake his father Warwicke, Yea and forfwore himfelfe (which lefu pardon.)

Qu. Mar. Which God revenge.

Glo. To fight on Edwards partie for the crowne, And for his meede (poore Lord) he is mewed vp: I would to God my heart were flint like Edwards, Or Edwards foft and pittiful like mine, I am too childish foolish for this world.

2.M. Hie thee to hell for shame, and leave the world.

Thou Cacodemon, there thy kingdome is,

Ri, My Lord of Glocester in those busie daies, Which here you vrge to proue vs enemies, We followed then our Lord, our lawfull King, So should we you, if you should be our king.

Gho. If I should beet had rather be a pedler, Farre be it from my heart the thought of it.

2.46. As little ioy (my Lord) as you suppose You should enioy, were you this countries king, As little ioy may you suppose in me, That I enioy being the Queene thereof.

2.M. A litle toy entoyes the Queene therof,

For I am the, and altogether toyleffe.

The Tragedie I can no longer hold me patient, Heare me you wrangling Pyrates that fall out, In tharing out that which you have pild from me : Which of you trembles not that lookes on me ? If not, that I being Queene, you bow like subjects. Yet that byou depoide, you quake like rebels : . Ogentle villaine, do not turne away. Glo. Foule wrinkled wirch, what maket thou in my fights 2. M. But repetition of what thou halt mard, That will Imake, before I let thee goe : A husband and a sonne thou owest to me, And thou a kingdome, all of you alleageance: The forrow that I have, by right is yours, And all the pleasures you vsurpe, is mine. Glo. The curfe my noble father laid on thee, When thou didft crowne his war like browes with paper, And with thy scorne drewst rivers from his eyes, And then to drie them gau'ft the Duke a clous,

And then to drie them gau it the Duke a cloud,
Steept in the bloud of prettie Rutland:
His curfes then from bitterneffe of foule,
Denounft against thee, are fallen vpon thee,
And God, not we, hath plagude thy bloodie deed.

Qu. So just is God to right the innocent.

Haft. O twas the foulest deed to slay that babe,
And the most mercilesse that ever was heard of.

Ri. Tyrants themschies wept when it was reported.

Dorl. No man but prophecied reuenge for it.

Buc. Northumberland then prefent, wept to fee it.

Qu. Mar. What? were you finarling all before I came,
Readie to catch each other by the throat,
And turne you now your hatred all on me?
Did Yorkes dread curfe preuaile fo much with heauen,
That Henries death, my louely Edwards death,
Their kingdomes loffe, my wofull banishment,
Could all but answere for that pecuish brat?
Can curfes pierce the cloudes, and enter heauen?

Why then give way dull cloudes to my quicke curses:
If not by warre, by surfer die your king?
As our by murder, to make him a king.

Edward

Edward thy fonne, which now is Prince of Wales, For Edward my fon, which was Prince of Wales. Die in his youth, by like vntimely violence, Thy felfe a Queene, for me that was a Queene, Out live thy glorie, bke my wresched felte: Long maift thou live to waile thy childrens loffe, And fee another, as I fee thee now. Decke in thy glorie, as thou art stald in mine: Long die rhy happie daies before thy death, And after many lengthened houres of greefe, Die neither mother, wife, nor England Queene, Rivers and Dorfer, you were standers by. And so was thou Lo. Hastings, when my sonne Was stabd with bloody daggers, God I pray him, That none of you may live your naturall age, But by fotne vnlookt accident cut off.

Glo. Have done thy charme thou hatefull withered hag. 2. M. And leave out thee? It ay dog, for thou shalt hear me

If heaven have any greewous plague in store, Exceeding those that I can wish vpon thee; Olet them keepe it ul thy finnes be ripe. And then harle downe their indignation On thee the troubler of the poore worlds peace : The worme of conference still begnaw thy foule. Thy friends tufpect for traytors while thou liveft, And take deepe traytors for thy dearest friends. No fleepe close vp that deadly eye of thine. Valelle it be whileft some tormenting dreame Affrights thee, with a hell of valy divels. Thou eluish markt, aborriue rooting hog, Thou that walt feald in thy nativitie The flave of nature, and the fonne of hell. Thou flaunder of thy mothers heavie wombe. Thou loathed affue of thy fathers loynes, Thou rag of honour, thou detelted, &c.

Glo. Margaret.

Qu.M. Richard. Gb. Ha.

Qu.M. I call thee not.

Glo. Then I crie thee merciesfor I had thought

Thou

The Tragedie Thou hadft cald me all thefe bitter names. Qu. Mar. Why fo I did, but looks for no reply. O let me make the period to my curfe; Glo. Tis done by me, and ends in Margaret. (felfe. Qu. Thus have you breathed your curse against your 2. M. Poore painted Queene, vaine flourish of my for-Why Itrewft thou fuger on that botled fpider, (tune: Whole deadly web infnareth thee about? Foole, foole, thou wherft a knife to kill thy felfe. The time will come when thou shalt wish for me, To helpe thee curfe that poiloned bunchbackt toade. Haft. False boading woman, end thy frantike curse, Least to thy harme thou move our patience, 2 M. Foule (hame you you, you have all mon'd mine. Ri. Were you well feru'd you would be taught your dury. 2.M. To ferue me well, you all should do me dutie, Teach me to be your Queene, and you my lubiects: Oferue me well, and teach your felues that die e, Dorf. Dispute not with her, she is lunarique. 2. M. Peace mafter Marquelle, you are malapert, Your fire-new stampe of honour is scarce current: O that your young nobilitie could judge, What I'were to loofe it and be miferable: They that stand high, have many blasts to shake them, And if they fall they dash themselves to perces, Glo, Good counsell marry, learne it, learne it Marques, Dorf. It roucheth you (my Lord) as much as me. Gle. Yes, and much more, but I was burne so high, Our aiery buildeth in the Cadars top, And dallies with the winde, and scornes the funne. 2.M. And turnes the funne to fhade, alas, alas, Wienes my fonne, now in the shade of death, Whole bright outshining beames, thy cloudie wrath, Hath in eternall darknelle foulded vp: Your aierie buildeth in our airies neaft, O God that feelt it, do not fuffer it : As it was wonne with bloud, loft be it fo. Buck, Have done for thame if not for charitie. 2.M. Vrge neither charitie nor shame to me,

Vncharitably with me haue you dealt,
And shamefully by you my hopes are butcherd,
My charitie is outrage life my shame,
And in my shame still line my sorrowes rage.

Buck, Haue done.

2. Mar. O princely Buckingham, I will kiffe thy hand, In ligne of league and amitie with thee:
Now faire befall thee, and thy princely house,
Thy garments are not spotted with our bloud,
Nor thou within the compasse of my curse.

Buck, Nor no one here, for curfes never palle.
The lips of the fe that breath them in the ayre.

And there awake Gods gentle fleeping peace.

O Buckingham beware of yonder dog,

Looke when he fawnes, he bites, & when he bites,

His venome tooth will rankle thee to death,

Haue not to do with him, beware of him:

Sinne, death, & hell haue fer their marks on him,

And all their ministers attend on him,

Glo. What doth the fay my Lo: of Buckingham?
Buck. Nothing that I respect my gracious Lord.

2. Mar. What doest thouseone me for my gentle counAnd soothe the divell that I warne thee from? (sell,
Obut remember this an c ther day,
When he shall split thy very heart with sorrow,
And say poore Margaret was a prophetesse:
Live each of you the subjects of his hate,

And he to you, and all of you to Gods.

Haft. My haire doth stand on end to heare her curses.

Rim. And so doth mine, I wonder shees at libertie.

Glo. I cannot blame her by Gods holy mother,

She hath had too much wrong, and I repent My part thereof that I have done.

Qn. I neuer did her any to my knowledge.
Glo. But you have all the vantage of this wrong.
I was too hot to do some body good,
That is too colde in thinking of it now:
Marry as for Clarence, he is well repaid,

He

The Tragedie He is frokt vp to fatting for his paines, God pardon them that are the cause of it. Rim. A vertuous and a Christianlike conclusion. To pray for them that have done scathe to vs. Glo. So do I euer being well aduide, For had I curft, now I had curft my lelfe. Cats. Madame his maiestie doth call for you. And for your noble Grace: and you my noble Lord. On. Catsby, we come, Lords will you go with vs. Rs. Madame, we will attend your Grace. Exeunt. ma. Clo, Gio. I do the wrong, and first began to braule, The fectet mischiefe that I fet abroach, I lay vinto the greeuous charge of others. Clarence, whom I indeede have laid in darkenelle : I do beweepe to many simple gu's: Namely to Haltings, Darby, Buckinham, And fay it is the Queene, and her allies That store the K. against the Duke my brother. Now they believe me, and withall whet me To be revengd on Rivers, Vaghan, Gray. But then figh, and with a piece of Cripture, Tell them that God bids vs do good for euil! And thus I cloath my naked villanie With old od ends, stolne out of holy writ, And leeme a Saint, when most I play the Divell, But loft heere comes my executioners. Enter Executioners, Flow now, my hardy flout refolued mates, Are ye now going to dispacth this deed ? Exe. We are my Lord, and come to have the warrant, That we may be admitted where he is. . Glo. It was well thought voon, I have it heare about me. When you have done, repaire to Crosbie place: But firs, be fudden in the execution : Withall, obdutate : do not heare him pleade, For Clarence is well spoken, and perhaps May move your hearts to pittie if you mark him, Exe. Tulh, feare not, my L. we will not frand to prates Talkers are no good doers be affured:

We come to vic our hands and not our tongues.

Glo. Your eies drop militones, when fooles eies drop tears,
I like you Lads, about your bufinesse. Exemp.

Enter Clarence, Brokenbury.

Bro. Why lookes your Grace to heavily to day?
Cla. Oh, I have past a miserable night,
So full of vgly sights, of gastly dreames,
That as I ama Christian faithfull man,
I would not spend another such a night,
Though t'were to buy a world of happie dayes,
So full of dismall terror was the time.

Bro. What was your dreame? I long to heare you tell it. Cla. Me thoughts I was imbarkt for burgundie, And in my company my brother Glocester, Who from my cabbin tempted me to walke Vpon the hatches, thence we lookt toward England, And cited vp a thouland fearefull times, During the warres of Yorke and Lancaster, That had befallen vs : as we past along, Vpon the giddy footing of the Hatches, Me thought that Glofter flumbled, and in flumbling Stroke me (that thought to flay him) ouer-board, Into the tumbling billowes of the maine. Lord, Lord, me thought what paine it was to drowne. What dreadfull noyle of waters in mine eares, What vgly fights of death within mine eyes? Me thought I faw a thousand fearefull wracks. Ten thousand men that fishes gnawed vpon, Wedges of gold, great Anchors, heapes of pearle, Inestimable stones, vnvalued iewels, Some lay in dead mens feuls, and in these holes Where eyes did once inhabite, there were crept As tween in fcorne of eyes reflicting gemi, Which woed the flimie bottom of the deepe, And mocke the dead bones that lay scattered by.

Bro. Had you such leasure in the time of death,
To gaze upon the secrets of the deepe?
Cla. Me thought I had: for still the enuious flood
Kept in my soule, and would not let it foorth,
To keepe the emptie wast and wandring ayre,

THE Trageure But smothered it within my panting bulke, Which almost burst to belch it in the lea. Brok, Awakt you not with this fore agonie? Clar. O no, my dreame was lengthned after life. O then began the tempest to my soule, Who past (me thought) the melancholy floud. With that grim terriman which Poets write of. Vnto the kingdome of perpetuall night: The first that there did greete my stranger fou'e, Was my great father in law, renowmed Warwick, Who cried aloud, what scourge for periurie Can this darke monarchie afford falle Clarences And so he vanisht: then came wandring by, A shadow like an Angell, in bright haire, Dabled in bloud, and he squeakt out aloud, Clarence is come, falle, fleeting, periurd Clarence, That stabd me in the field by Teuxburie: Seaze on him furies, take him to your torments, With that me thought a legion of foule fiends Enuironed me about, and howled in mine eares. Such hidious cries, that with the very noise, I trembling, wakt, and for a feason after, Could not beleene but that I was in hell-Such terrible impression made the dreame. Bro. No maruell (my Lo.) though it affrighted you. I promife you, I am afraid to beare you tell it,

Cla. O Brokenburie, I have done those things, Which now beare evidence against my soule, For Edwards sake, and see how he requites me. I pray thee gentle keeper stay by me, My soule is heavie, and I faine would sleepe.

Brok. I will (my Lord) God giue your Grace good reft,
Sorrow breakes seasons, and reposing howers
Makes the night morning, and the noonetide night.
Princes have but their ritles for their glories,
An outward honour for an inward toyle:
And for vnfelt imagination,
They often feele a world of restlesses:
So that betweet your titles, and lowe names, of Richard the third. There's nothing differs but the outward fame.

There's

The murtherers enter.

In Gods name what are you and how came you hither?

Exe. I would speake with Clarence, and I came hither on

Bro. Yea, are ye so briefel? (my legs.

2. Exe. O fir, it is better be briefe then redious,

Shew him our commission talke no more. He readeth &

Bro. I am in this commanded to definer
The poble Duke of Clarence to your han

The noble Duke of Clarence to your hands.

I will not reason what is meant thereby.

Because I will be guiltlesse of the meaning :

Heere are the keyes there fits the Duke a fleepe:

Ile to his Maiestie and certifie his Grace, That thus I have refignd my place to you.

Exe. Do so, it is a point of Wisedome.

2. What shall we stab him as he sleepes?

1 No, then he will say twas done cowardly When he waker.

2 When he wakes,

Why foole he shall never wake till the judgement day.

I Why then he will fay we flabd him fleeping.

2 The vrging of that word judgement, hath bred A kinde of remorfe in me.

I What, art thou afraid?

2 Not to kill him having a warrant for it, but to be dated For killing him, from which no warrant can defend vs.

I Backe to the Duke of Glofter, tell him fo.

2 I pray thee stay awhile, I hope my holy humour will Change, twas wont to hold me but while one would tell xx

1 How dooft thou feele thy felfe now? (in me, 2 Faith some certained regs of conscience are yet with-

I Remember our reward when the deed is done.

2 Zounds he dies, I had forgot the reward.

I Where is thy confcience now?
2 In the Duke of Glosters purse.

I So when he opens his purse to give vs our reward, Thy conscience flyes out.

2 Let it go, ther's few or none will entertaine it.

I How if it come to thee againe,?

2 16

The Tragedie

2 Ile not meddle with it, it is a dangerous thing, It makes a man a coward. A man cannot steale, But it accuseth him, he cannot steale but it checks him: He cannot lie with his neighbrs wife but it detects Him. It is a blushing shamefast spirit that mutinies In a mans bosome: it fils one full of obstacles, It made me once testore a piece of gold that I found. It beggers any man that keepes it: it is turnd out of all Townes and Cities for a dangerous thing, and every Man that meanes to live well, endeuours to trust. To himselfe, and to live without it.

1 Zounds, it is even now at my elbow perswading me Not to kill the Duke.

2 Take the deuill in thy minde, and beleeve him not, He would infinuate with thee to make thee figh.

1 Tut, I am ftrong in fraud, he cannot prevaile with me,

2 Spoke like a tall fellow that respects his reputation, Come shall we to this geare?

I Take him over the coltard with the hilts of my fword, And then we will chop him in the Malmfey-but in the next

2 Oh, excellent device, make a scoope of him. (roome.

I Harke, he ftirs, fhall I ftrike?

2 No, first lets reason with him. Cla. amaketh.
Cla. Where are thou Keeper, give me a cup of wine.

I You shall have wine enough, my Losanon.

Cla. In Gods name, what are thou?

2 A man, as you are.

Cla. But not as I am, rovall.

. 2 Nor you as we are, loyall

( In Thy voyce is thunder, but thy lookes are humbles

2 My voyce is now the kings, my lookes mine owne.

Tell me who are you? wherefore come you hither?

Am. To, to, to.

Cla. To murther me? Am. 1.

Cla. You scarcely have the hearts to tell me so, And therefore cannot have the hearts to do it. Wherein my friends have softended your

I Offend

Offended vs you have not, but the King, Cla, I shall be reconcild to him againe, 2 Neuer my Lo, therefore prepare to die.

Cla. Are you cald forth from out a world of men
To flay the innocent? what is my offence?
Where are the euidence to accuse me?
What lawfull quest have given their verdict vp
Vnto the frowning judge, or who pronounst
The bitter sentence of poore Clarence death,
Before I be conside by course of law?
To threaten me with death is most vnlawfull:
I charge you as you hope to have redemption,
By Christs deare blood shed for our greetous sins
That you depart and lay no hands on me,
The deede you vndertake is damnable.

I What we will do, we do vpon commandia And he that hath commanded is the king.

Cla. Erronious Vallaile, the great King of Kings,
Hath in his Tables of his Law commanded,
That thou shalt do no murther, and walt thou then
Spurne at his edict, and fulfill a mans?
Take heede, for he holds vengeance in his hands,
To hurle vpon their heads that breake his Law.

2 And that fame vengeance doth he throw on thes.
For falle for (wearing and for muder too:
Thou didft receive the holy Sacrament
To fight in quarrel of the house of Lancaster,

Didft breake that yow and with thy trecherous blade, Vnripft the bowels of thy fourraignes fonne,

2 Whom thou wert fworne to cherifh and defend.

I How canft thou vige Gods dreadfull law to vs.

When thou hast broke it in so deare degree?

Cla. Alas, for whose sake did I that ill deed?

For Edward, for my brother, for his sake:

Why sirs, he sends ye not to murder me for this,

For in this sinne he is as deepe as I.

If God will be reuenged for this deede.

Take not the quarrell from his powerfull arme.

ALIN AMERICA

He needs no indirect nor lawfull course, To cut off those that have offended him.

Who made thee then a bloody minister, When gallant spring, braue Plantagenet, That Princely Notice was strooke dead by thee? Cla, My brothers loue, the Deuill, and my rage.

Thy brothers love, the deuill, and thy fault, Have brought vs hither now to murther thee.

Cis. Oh, if you love my brother, hate not me, I am his brother, and I love him well:

If you be hirde for need, go backe againe,
And I will fend you to my brother Glocester,
Who will reward you better for my life,
Then Edward will for rydings of my death.

2 You are decein'd your brother Glocester hates you.

Cls. Oh no, he loues me and he holds me deare,

Go you to him from me.

Am. I fo we will.

Cla. Tell him, when that our Princely father Yorke,
Blest his three sonnes with his victorious arme:
And charged vs from his soule to loue each other,
He little thought of this divided friendship.
Bid Glocester thinke of this and he will weepe.

Am, I, milstones, as he lessond vs to weepe.

C/a O, do not flander him for he is kinde,

1 Right, as fnow in harueft, thou deceinft thy felfe,
Tis he that fent vs hither now to murder thee.

Cla-It cannot be: for when I parted with him, He hugd me in his armes, and swore with sobs, I hat he would labour my deliueric.

2: Why so he doth, now he deliuers thee
From this worlds thraldome: to the ioyes of heaven.

I Make peace with God, for you must die my Lord.
Cia. Hast thou that holy sceling in thy soule,
To counsell me to make my peace with God,
And are thou yet to thy owne soule so blind,
That thou wilt war with God for murdering me?
Ah six, consider he that set you on
To do this deede, will hate you for this deede.

a What

2 What shall we do?

Cla. Relent and faue your foules.

I Relent, tis cowardly and womanish.

Cla. Not to relent, is beaftly, sauage, and divellish.

My friend, I spie some pittie in thy lookes:

Oh if thy eve be not a flatterer,

Come thou on my fide and entreate for me:

A begging Prince, what begger pitties not?

I I thus, and thus: if this will not ferue, He stabs bing. He chop thee in the malmeley But in the next roome.

2 A bloudie deed, and desperately performd, How faine like Pilate would I wash my hand, Of this most grieuous guiltie murder done.

I Why doest thou not he pe me?

By heavens the Duke shall know how flacke thou are.

2 I would he knew that I had faued his brother,

Take thou the fee, and rell him what I fay, For I repent me that the Duke is flaine.

Exit.

I So do not I, goe coward as thou art: Now must I hide his body in fome hole, Vntill the Duke take order for his buriall: And when I have my meed I must away, For this will out, and here I must not stay.

Excunt.

Enter King, Queene, Hastings, Riners, &c. King. So now I have done a good dayes worke, You peeres continue this vnited league, I every day expect an Emballage From my Redeemer, to redeeme me hence: And now in peace my foule shall part to heaven, Since I have let my friends at peace on earth: Rivers and Haftings, take each others hand, Dissemble not your harred, sweare your love.

Rs. By heaven my heart is purgd from grudging hate,

And with my hand I feale my true hearts loue.

Haft. So thriue Ias I sweare the like. King. Take heed you dally not before your king.

Least he that is the supreme King of Kings, Confound your hidden falshood, and award Either of you to be the others end-

List Fragture

Haft. So prosper I as I sweare perfect loue.

t Rim. And I, as I loue Hastings with my heart.

Kin. Madam, your selfe are not exempt in this,
Nor your sonne Dorset, Buckingham, nor you,
You have bene sactious one against the other:
Wife, loue Lord Hastings, let him kisse your hand,
And what you do, do it vnfainedly:

Qu. Here Hastings, I wil neuer more remember

Our former hatred, so thriue I and mine.

Dor. Thus enterchange of loue, I here proselt,

Ha. And to (weare 1 my Lord.

Km. Now princely Buckingham feale thou this league, With thy embracements to my wines allies,

And make me happie in your vnitie.

Buc. When ever Bucking ham doth turne his hate
On you, or yours, but with all dutious love
Doth cheriff you and yours, God punish me
With hate, in those where I expect most love,
When I have most need to imploy a friend,
And most assured that he is a friend,
Deepe, hollow, trecherous, and full of guile
Be he vnto me. This do I begge of God,
When I am cold in zeale to you or yours.

Kin. A pleasing cordial princely Buckingham, Is this thy vowe vnto my lickly heart: There wanteth now our brother Gloster here, To make the perfect period of this peace.

Enter Glocefter.

Buc. And in good time, here comes the noble Duke.

Glo. Oood morrow to my fourraigne king and queene,
And princely peeres, a happie time of day.

Kin. Happie indeed, as we have spent the day:
Brother, we have done deeds of charine:
Made peace of enmitie, faire love of hate,
Betweene these swelling wrong incensed Peeres.
Ghe A blessed labour most soveraigne liege,
Amongst this princely heape, if any here

Amongst this princely heape, if any here By false intelligence or wrong surmise, of Richard the third. Hold me a foe, if I vnwittingly, or in my rage, Have ought committed that is hardly borne By any in this prefence, I defire To reconcile me to his friendly peace. T's death to me to be at enmitie. I hate it, and defire all good mens love. First Madame, I intreat peace of you, Which I will purchase with my durious service. Of you my noble cousen Buckingham,' If ever any grudge were lodg'd betweene vs. Of you Lord Rivers, and Lord Gray of you, That all without defert have frownd on me, Dukes, Earles, Lords, gentlemen, in deed of all: I do not know that English man alive, With whom my foule is any iotte at oddes, More then the infant that is borne to night: I thanke my God for my humilitie. Qu. A holy day shall this be kept hereafter, I would to God all strifes were well compounded, My fourraigne liege I do befeech your maiestie To take our brother Clarence to your grace. Gio. Why Madame, have I offred love for this, To be thus scorned in this royall presence ? Who knowes not that the noble Duke is dead? You do him injury to scorne his course, Ri. Who knowes not he is dead; who knowes he is? Qu. All feeing heaven, what a world is this # Buc. Looke I so pale Lord Dorset as the rest? Dor. I my good Lord, and no one in this presence, But his red colour hath for looke his cheekes. Kin. Is Clarence dead, the order was rever ft. Glo. But he (poore foule) by your first order died, And that a winged Mercury did beare, Some tardie cripple bore the countermaund, That came too lagge to fee him buried; God graunt that tome leffe poble, and leffe loyall, Nearer in bloudie thoughts, but not in bloud:

Deserve not worse then wretched Clarence did,

Enter Darbie.

Dar.

And yet goe current from suspition.

ine iragedie

Dar. A boone (my loueraigne) for my fertice done. Kin. I pray thee peace, my foule is full of forrow. Dar, I will not rife vnleffe your highneffe graune. Kin. Then speake at once, what is it thou demannds? The forfeit (foueraigne) of my feruants life,

Who flew to day a ryotous gentleman, Lately arrendant on the Duke of Nortfolke.

Kin. Hane la tongue to doome my brothers death, And thall the fame give pardon to a flave? My brother flew no man, his fault was thought, And yet his punishment was cruell death. Who fued to me for him? who in my rage, Kneeld at my feete, and bad me be aduifde? Who spake of brotherhood? who of love? Who told me how the poore louis did forfake The mightie Warwicke, and did fight for me ? Who told me in the field by Teuxburie, When Oxford had me downe he rescued me, And faid, deare brother, live and be a king & Who told me when we both lay in the field, Frozen almost to death, how he did lappe me, Euen in his owne garments, and gaue hamfelfe All thin and naked to the numb cold nights All this from my remembrance brutish wrath Sinfully pluckt, and not a man of you Had so much grace to put it in my minde. But when your carters, or your waighting vallailes Haue done a drunken flaughter, and defafte The precious Image of our deare Redeemer, You straight are on your knees for pardon, pardon, And I vniuftly too, must graunt it you: But for my brother, not a malt would speake, Nor I (vngracious) speake vnto my selfe, For him, poore foule: The proudeft of you all Have bene beholding to him in his life, Yet none of you would once plead for his life: Oh God, I feare thy justice will take holde (Exit. On me, and you, and mine, and yours for this, Come Hastings, helpe me to my closet, oh poore Clarence.

How that the guiltie kindred of the Queene,
Lookt pale when they did heare of Clarence death.
Oh, they did vrge it still vnto the King,
God will reuenge it. But come lets in
To comfort Edward with our company.

Exemp.

Enter Dutches of Yorke with Clarence children.

Boy. Tell me good Granam, is our father dead?

(breaft?

Boy. Why do you wring your hands and beat your

And crie, Oh Clarence my wnhappy sonne?

Girle, Why do you looke on vs and shake your head?

And call vs wretches, Orphanes, castawayes,

If that our noble father be aliue?

Dur. My prettie Colens, you miltake me much, I do lament the ficknesse of the King:
As loath to loose him, not your fathers death:
It were lost labour to weepe for one that's lost.

Boy. Then Granam you conclude that he is dead,
The King my Vncle is too blame for this:
God will reuenge it, whom I will importune
With dayly prayers all to that effect.

Dut. Peace children peace, the King doth lone you well, Incapable and thallow innocents,

You cannot gette who cause your fathers death.

Boy. Granam, we can: for my good Vncle Glocefter
Told me, the King prouoked by the Queene,
Deuil'd impeachments to imprifon him:
And when he told me so he wept,
And hugd me in his arme, and kindly kist my cheeke,
And bad me relie on him as on my father,

And he wold love me dearely as his childe.

Dut. Oh that deceit should steale such gentle shapes,
And with a vertuous vizard hide foule guile,
He is my sonne, yea, and therein my shame:
Yet from my dugs he drew not this deceit.

Boy. Thinke you my Vncle did diffemble, Granam? Dut, 1 Boy.

Boy. I cannot thirnke it, harke, what noise is this?

F

Enter

The Tragedie

20. Wh who shall hinder me to waile and weepe?
To chide my fortune, and torment my selfe?
Ile ioy ne with blacke dispaire against my soule.
And to my selfe become an enemie.

Dw. What meanes this sceane of rude impatience?

2w. To make an act of tragicke violence.

Edward, my Lord, your sonne our king is dead.

Why grow the branches, now the roote is withred?

Why wither not the leaues, the sap being gone?

If you will line, ament: if die, be briefe:

That our swift winged soules may catch the kings,

Or like obedient subjects, follow him

To his new kingdome of perpetuals rest.

As I had title in thy noble husband:

I have bewept a worthy husbands death,
And liu'd by looking on his images,
But now two mirrors of his princely famblance,
Are crackt in peeces by malignant death:
And I for comfort have but one falle glaffe,
Which greeues me when I fee my shame in him.
Thou art a widow, yet thou art a mother,
And hast the comfort of thy children left thee:
But death hath snatcht my children from mine armes,
And pluckt two crutches from my feeble limmes,
Edward and Clarence, Oh what cause have I
Then, being but moitie of my griefe,
To overgo thy plaints and drowne thy cries?

Boy. Good Aunt, you wept not for our fathers death,
How can we side you with our kindreds teares?
Gerl. Our fatherleffe diffreffe was left vnmoand,
Your widowes dolours likewife be vnwept.

Qu. Giue me no helpe in lamentation,
I am not barren tobring forth laments.
All fprings reduce their currents to mine eies,
That I being gouernd by the watry moune,
May fend forth plenteous teares to drowne the world:
Oh for my husband, for my heire Lo, Edwards.

Ambre.

Ambo. Oh for our father for our deare Lo. Clarence. Dut. Alas for both both mine Edward and Clarence. On. What State had I but Edward, and he is gone? Mhat stais had we but Clarence, and he is gone? Dut, What Staies had I but they, and they are gone? Du. Was never widow, had to deare a loffe. Am. Was eyer Orphanes had a dearer lolle? Dut. Was ever mother had a dearer loffe? Alas, I am the mother of these mones, Their woes are parceld, mine are generall! She for Edward weepes, and fo do I: I for a Clarence weepe, so doth not she: These babes for Clarence weepe, and so do I: I for an Edward weepe, and fo do they. Alas, you three on me threefold diffreft. Powre all your teares, I am your forrowes nurle, And I will pamper it with lamentations. Enter Glofter. GAMadam have comfort, all of vs have cause with others. To waile the dimming of our thining ftarre: But none can cure their harmes by wailing them. Madame my mother, I do cry you mercie, I did not fee your grace humbly on my knee I crave your bleffing. Dut. God bleffe thee, and put meeknes in thy minde,

Loue, charitie, obedience, and true dutie.

Gio. Amen, and make me die a good old man.

That the butt end of my mothers bleffing:

I marvell why her grace did leaue it out?

Buck, You cloudy princes, and hart forrowing peeres.

That beare this mutuall heauie load of moane,
Now cheare each other, in each others loue:
Though we have spent our harvest for this king,
We are to reape the harvest of his sonne.
The broken rancour of your high swolne hearts,
But lately splinted, knir, and toy not together,
Must greatly be present d, cherisht, and kept.
Me seemeth good that with some little traine,
Forthwith from Ludlow the yong prince be setche
Hither to London, to be crowned our king,

The Tragedic

Glo. Then be it fo: and go we to determine
Who they shall be that straight shall post to Ludlow.
Madame, and you my mother, will you go,
To give your confirmation that maintains has inselled.

To give your centures in this waightie bulinelle.

An/, With all our hearts. Exempt. manet Glo, Buck.

Buck, My Lord, who ever iourneyes to the Prince?

For Gods fake let not vs two be behinde:

For by the way Ile fort occasion,

As index to the ftorie we lately ta'kt off,

To part the Queenes proude kindred from the King. Glo. My other felfe, my counfels confiftene.

My Oracle, my Prophet, my deare Colon: I like a childe will go by thy direction:

Towards Ludlow then, for we will not flay behinde. Exi's.

Enter two Citizens.

I Cit. Neighbour well met, whither away fo falte

2 (ii. I promise you, I scarcely know my selfe, I Heare you the newes abroad?

2 I that the King is dead.

1 Bad newes birlady, seldome comes the better,
I feare, I feare, twill proope a troublesome world. Enter a2 Cu. Good morrow neighbours.

3 Cir. Good morrow neighbours.

Doth this newes hold of good King. Edwards death?

1 It doth, 3 Then malters looke to fee a troublous world

1 No, no, by Gods grace his sonne shall raigne.
3 Wo to that land thats governd by a childe.

2 In him there is a hope of government, That in his nonage, counfell under him, And in his full and repend yeeres himselfe, No doubt shall then and till then governe well.

I So flood the state when Harry the fixt Was crownd at Paris, but at nine moneths olde.

3 Stood the state so? no good my friend not so, For then this land was famously enricht With politike grave counsell: then the King. Had vertuous Vincles to protect his Grace.

2 So hath this, both by the father and mother. 3 Better it were they all came by the father,

Or by the father there were none at all :

For emulation now, who shall be nearest,
Which touch vs all too neare if God preuent not.
Oh full of danger is the Duke of Glocester,
And the Queenes kindred hautie and proude,
And were they to be rulde, and not to rule,
This sickly land might folace as before.

2 Come, come, we feare the woorlt, all shall be well.

3 When clouds appeare, wifemen put on their cloakes. When great leaves fall, the winter is at hand:
When the fun fets, who doth not looke for night?
Vntimely stormes make men expect a dearth:
All may be well: but if God fort it fo,
T is more then we deferue or I expect.

Truely the foules of men are full of dread: Ye cannot almost reason with a man That looke not heavily and full of feare.

3 Before the times of change, still is it so: By a divine instinct mens mindes mistrust Fnsuing dangers, as by proofe we see, The waters swell before a boy stroug storme: But leave it all to God: whither away?

a We are fent for to the luftice.

3 And so was I, Ile beare you companie. Exeum.

Enter Cardinals, Dutches of Yorke, Qu. yong Yorke.

Car. Last night I heard they lay at Northhampton,

At Stonistratford will they be to night,

To morrow or next day they will be here.

Dut. I long with all my heart to fee the Prince,

I hope he is much growen fince last I saw him.

Qu. But I heare no, they say my sonne of York

Hath alm of operane him in his growth.

Yor. I mother, but I would not have it so, Dut. Why my yong Cousin it is good to grow. Yor. Granam, one night as we did fit at supper,

My Vncle Rivers talkt how I did grow
More then my brothe apporth my Vncle CloSmall hearbs have grace great weeds grow apace:
And fince me thinkes I would not grow to falt,
Because tweete flowers are flow, and weedes make haste.

TheTragedie Dut. Good faith, good faith: the faying did not hold, In him that did object the fame to thee: He was the wretchedft thing when he was yong, So long a growing and fo lesfurely, That if this were a rule, he should be eracious. (ar. Why Madame, so no doubt he is. Dut. I hope so too, but yet let mothers doubt, Yor. Now by my troth if I had beene remembred. I could have given my Vncles Grace a flout, mine That should have neerer toucht his growth then he did Dut, How my prettie Yorke ! I pray thee let mee heare it. Tor. Marry they fay, that my Vncle grew fo faft, That he could gnaw a crust at two houres hold ? Twasful two yeeres ere I could get a tooth. Granam this would have beene a prettie ieft, Dut. I pray thee prettie Yorke, who told thee for Tor. Granam, his Nurle. Dut. Why, the was dead ere thou wert borne. Yor. If twere not the, I cannot tell who told me, Qu. A perilous boy : go too: you are too shrewd, Car, Good Madame be not angry with the child. Enter Dorfet. Qu. Pitchers haue eares_ Car. Here comes your sonne, Lord Marques Dorfet, What newes Lord Marques? Dor. Such newes, my Lord, as grieves me to infold. Qu. How fares the Prince? Dor. Well. Madame, and in health. Dut. What is the newes then? Dor. Lord Rivers, and Lord Gray, are fent to Pomfret, With them, Sir Thomas Vaughan, prisoners. Dut. Who hath committed them? Dor, The mightie Dukes, Clocester and Buckingham, Car. For what offence? Der. The fumme of all I can, I have disclosed: Why, or for what these Nobles were committed, Is all vaknowne to me, my gracious ady. Qu. Ay me, I fee the downefall of our house, The Tyger now hath ceazed the gentle Hinde: Infulring tyranny begins to iet.

Vpon the innocent and lawleffe throane: Welcome destruction, death and mallacre.

I fee as in a Mappe the end of all.

Dut, Accurred and vaquiet wrangling dayes, How many of you have mine eyes beheld ? My husband loft his life to get the crowner And often vp and downe my fonnes were roft, For me to joy and weepe their gaine and loffe. And being feated, and domesticke broyles Cleane overblown, themselves the conquerours, Make war vpon themselves, blood against blood Selfe against selfe, O preposterous And franticke outrage, end thy damned fpleene, Or let me die to looke on death no more.

2. Come, come, my boy, we will to Sanctuarie.

Dut. He go along with you, Qu. You have no cause.

Car. My Gracious Ladie, go.

And thither beare your treasure and your goods, For my part, Ile refigne vnto your Grace, The Seale I keepe, and so betide to me, As well I tender you, and all of yours: Come, Ile conduct you to the fanctuarie.

Exeunt. The Trumpets found. Enter your Prince, the Dukes of Glocester, and Buckingham, Cardinall, &c.

Buc. Welcome sweete Prince to London to your charm-Glo. Welcome deare Cofen my thoughts foueraigne.

The wearie way hath made you melancholie. Prin. No Vncle, but our croffes on the way,

Have made it redious, wearisome, and heavie:

I want more Vncles here to welcome me. .

Glo. Sweet Prince, the vntainted vertue of your yeeres, Hath not yet dived into the worlds deceit : Nor more can you diftinguish of a man, Then of his outward flew, which God he knowes, Seldome or neuer sumpeth with the heart, Those Vncles which you want, were dangerous, Your Grace attended to their fugred words

But lookt not on the poylon of their hearts;

A LIE & LABOUIL

Godkeepe you from them, and from such false friends.

Prin. God keepe me from false friends, but they were none,

Glo. My Lord, the Maior of London comes to greete you.

Enter Lord Maior.

Lo.M.God bleffe your Grace, with health and happy daies

Prin. I thanke you good my L. and thanke you all s

I thought my mother and my brother Yorke,

Would long ere this have met vs on the way:

Fie, what a flug is Hastings that he comes not

To tell vs whether they will come or no.

Enter L. Ha.

Buck. And in good time heere comes the sweating Lord.

Pria. Welcome my L. what, will our mother come?

Hast. On what occasion God he knowes not 1:

The Queene your mother, and your brother Yorke

Haue taken Sanctuarie: The tender Prince

Would faine come with me to meete your Grace, But by his mother was perforce withheld.

Buc. Fie, what an indirect and peenish course
Is this of hess? L. Cardinall, will your Grace
Perswade the Queene thesend the Duke of Yorke
Vinto his princely brother presently?
If the dgnie, L. Hastings go with him,

And from her icalous armes plucke him perforce.

Car. My Lof Buckingham, if my weake oratorie

Can from his mother winne to Duke of Yorke,

Anon expect him heere: but if the be obdurate

To milde entreaties, God forbid

We should infringe the holy priviledge

Of bleffed Sanctuarie: not for all this land,

Would I be guiltie of so great a finne.

Buck. You are too sencelesse obstinate my L.
Too ceremonious and traditional.
Weigh it but with the grossenslesse,
You breake not Sanctuarie in seazing him:
The benefit thereof is alwayes granted
To those whose dealings have deserved the place.
And those who have the witto claime the place.
This Prince hath neither claimed it, nor deserved it,
And therefore in mine opinion cannot have it.

Then

Then taking him from thence that is not there. You breake no priniledge nor charter there: Oft have I heard of fanctuarie men. Bur Sanctuarie children neuer till now.

Car. My Lord, you shall ouerrule my minde for once:

Come on Lord Haftings, will you go with mer Haft. I go my Lord. Exit. Car. of Haft. Pr. Good Lords make all the speedie hast you Say Vncle Glocester if our brother come, (may. Where shall we sojourne till our Coronation? Glo. Where it thinkst best vnto your royall selfe: If I my countel you some day or two, Your highnesse shall repole you at the Tower:

Then where you please & shalbe thought most fit For your best health and recreation.

Pri. I do not like the Tower of any place: Did Iulius Cafer build that place my Lord? Buck, He did, my gracious L. begin that place, Which fince fucceding ages have reedified.

Prin. Is it voon record, or els reported Successively from age to age he built it? Buck, V pon record my gracious Lord.

Prin But fay my Lord it were not registred, Me thinkes the truth should live from age to age, As twere retailed to all posteritie,

Even to the generall ending day.

Glo. So wife, lo yong, they lay do neuer live long, Prin, What fay you Vrcle? Glo, I fay, without Characters fame lines long:

Thus like the formall vice iniquitie, I moralize two meanings in one word.

Prin. That Iulius Cafar was a famous man, With what his valour did enrich his wit, His wit fet downe to make his valour line : Death makes no conquest of his conquerous, For now he lives in fame, though not in life : He tell you what my Coulen Buckingham,

Back. What my gratious Lord? Pm. Andif I line vntill I bea man,

The Tragodic Ile win our auncient might in France againe, Or dye a fouldier as I ha'd a king, Glo. Short fommers lightly have a forward fpring. Enter yong Yorke, Haftings, Cardinall. Buc. Now in good time, here comes the Duke of Yorke. Prin. Rich of Yorke how fares our noble brother? Yor. Well my deare Lo: fo must I call you now. Prin. I brother to our griefe, as it is yours: Too late he died that might have kept that title, Which by his death hath loft much maieftie, Glo. How fares our coulen noble Lof Yorke? Yor. I thanke you gentle vnele. Omy Lord, You faid that Idle weeds are fast in growth: The Prince my brother hath outgrowne me farre. Gio. He bath my Lo: Tor. And therefore is he idle? Glo. Oh my faire coulen, t must not fay fo. Tor. Then he is more beholding to youthen L. Glo. He may command me as my foueraigne. But you have power in me as in's kinfman ... Yor. I pray you vncle give methis dagger. Glo. My digger little coulen with all my heart. Prin. A begger brother? Yor. Of my kind vicle that I know will gine, And being but a toy, which is no griefe to give. Glo. A greater gift then that, lie gine my colen. Tor. A greater gift? O thats the fivord to it. Cio. I gentle colen, were it lightenough. Tor. () than thee you wil part t be with light gifts, Ja weightier things yould fay a begger nay. Gle. It is too weightie for your grace to weare. Tor. I weight is hely were it heawer. Great What would you have my swapen little Lord? Yor. Five uld that I might thanke you as as you call me. Glo. How ! Yor. Litle. Prin. My Lo: of Yorke will fill be croffe in talke: Vrc'e your grace knowes how to beare with him.

Tor. You meane to beare me, not to beare with me:

Vucle, my brother mockes both you and me,

Because that I am little like an A pe,

He thinkes that you should beare me on your shoulders,

Buc, With what a sharpe prouided wit he reasons,

To mitrigate the scorne he give his vacle, He pretely and aptly taunts himselfe:

So cunning and to yong is wonderfull,

Glo, My Lo: wilt please you passe along?
My selfe and my good cousen Bucking ham,

Will to your mother, to entreat of her

To meet you at the Tower, and welcome you,

Tor. What will you goe vnto the tower my Lo?

Tor, I shall pot seepe in quiet at the Tower.

Glo. Why, what should you fearet

Tor. Mary my vncle Clarence angry ghoft:

My, Granam tolde make was murdred there.

Prin. I frare no vncles dead;

Glo. Nor nonethat line, I hope.

Prim. And if they live, I hope I need not feare.

But come my I with a heavie heart

Thinking on them, goe I vneo the Tower.

1. xeunt Priv. Yor . Haft . Haft . Dorf . manet , Rich. Buc.

Buc. Thinke you my Lo: this litle prating Yorke,

Was not incented by his subtile mother,

To caunt and fcorne you thus opprobrioufly?

Glo. No doube, no doube, Oh tis a perilous boy,

Bold quicke, ingenious, forward, capable,

He is all the mothers, from the sop to toe.

Buc, Well let them rest : Come hither Catesby,

Thou art sworne as deeply to effect, what we intend,

As closely to conceale what we impart,

Thou knowest our reasons vigde vpon the way:

What thinkest thou, is it not an easie matter

To make William L. Hallings of our minde,

For the inflatment of this noble Duke, In the feate royall of this famous light

Catef. He for his fathers lake fo loues the Prince,

That he will not be wonne to ought againft him.

Buc. What thinkell thou then of Stanley what will he?

F 2

Cat.

The Tragedie Cat. He will do all in all as Haftings doth. Buck. Well, then no more but this: Go gentle Catesby, and as it were a farre off, Sound Lord Hastings how he stands affected Vnto our purpole, If he be willing, Encourage him, and thew him all our reasons: If he be leaden, leie, cold, vnwilling, Be thou fo too : and fo breake off your talke, And give vs notice of his inclination, For we to morrow hold divided counfels. Wherein thy felfe shalt highly be employed. Glo. Commend me to Lord William, tell him Catesby, His ancient knot of dangerous adversaries . To moi row are let blood at Pomfret Castle, And bid my friend for joy of this good newes, Giue gentle Mistresse Shore, one gente kisse the more. Buck, Good Catesby effect this bufinelle foundly. Cat. My good Lords both: with all the heed I may. Glo. Shall we heare from you Catesby ere we fleeper Cat. You shall my Lord. Exit Catesby. Glo. At Crosby place, there shall you find vs both. Buck. Now my Lord, what shall we do, if we perceive William Lord Haftings will not yeeld to our complots? Glo. Chop off his head man, fomewhat we will do. And looke when I am King claime thou of me The Earledome of Herford and the mooneables, Whereof the King my brother flood polleft. Buc. He claime that promise at your Graces hands. Glo. And looke to have it yeelded with willing neile. Come let vs sup betimes, that afterwards We may digeft our complots in some forme. Excunt. Enter a meffinger to Lord Hastines. Meff. What ho my Lord. Haft. Who knocks at the doore? Mel. A mellenger from the L. Stanley. Enter L. Haft. Haft. Whats a clocker

Mel. V pon the stroke of foure.

"Hast. Cannot thy maister sleepe the reditous nights?"
Mes. So it should seeme by that I have to say:

Firft

First he commends him to your noble Lordship.

Hast. And then. Mest. And then he sends you word,
He dreamt to night the Beare had raste his helme:
Besides he sayes, there are two councels held,
And that may be determined at the one,
Which may make you and him to rewat the other.
Therefore he sends to know your Lorships pleasure
If presently you will take horse with him,
And with all speed post into the North,
To shun the danger that his soule dimines.

Haft. Good fellow go, returne vnto thy Lord:
Bid him not fearethe separated councels:
His Honour and my selfe are at the one,
And at the othet is my seruant Catesby:
Where nothing can proceed that toucheth vs,
Whereof Ishall not have intelligence.
Tell him his feares are shallow, wanting instancie.
And for his dreames, I wonder he is so fond,
To trust the mockerie of vnquiet slumbers.
To slye the Boare before the Boare pursue vs,
Were to incense the Boare to follow vs,
And make pursuire where he did meane no chase.
Go, bid thy master rise and come to me,
And we will both together to the Tower,
Where he shall see the Boare will vse vs kindly.

Mef. My gracious Lord, le tell him what you say. Exit.
Enter Catesby to L. Hastings.

Cat. Many good morrowes to my noble Lord.

Half. Good morrow Catesby: you are early flirring.

What newes, what newes, in this our tottering state?

Cat. It is a reeling world indeed my Lord.

And I beleeue twill neuer fland vpright
Till Richard weare the Garland of the Realme.

Haft. Who? weare the Garland? do est thou meane the Cat. I my good Lord. (Crowne?

Hast. lle haue this crowne of mine, cut from my shoulders
Ere I will see the Crowne so foule misplaste:
But canst thou gesse that he doth ayme at its

Cat. Vpon my life my L. and hopes to finde you forward F 3 Vpon

Vpon his party for And thereupon he lends you this good newes, That this same very ay, your enemies, The kindred of the Queene must die at Pomfret. Haft. Indeed I am no mourner for that newer, Because they have beene still mine enemies: But that Ile give my voyce on Richard fide, Tobarre my mafters heres in true difcent, God knowes I will not do it to the death, Cat. God keepe your Lordinip in that gracious minde. Haft. But I thall laugh at this a twelvemonth hence, That they who brought, me in my Mailters hates I has to looke vpon their tragedie: Itel! the Catesby. Cat. What my Lord? Haft. Ere a fortnight make me older, He fend some packing, that yet thinke not on it. Cat, Tisa vilething to die my gracious Lord, When men are vnprepard and looke not for it, ... Haft. O monttrous, monttrous, and to fals it out'; With Rivers, Vaughan, Gray: and so twill dop-With fome men els, who thinke themselves as fafe. As thou, and I, who as thou knowst are deare. To princely Richard, and to Bucking ham. Cat. The Princes both make high account of you, For they account his head upon the bridge. Haft. I know they do; and I have well deferued i. Enter Lord Stanley. What my L. where is your Boate-speare man? Feare you the Boare and goe to unprovided ? Stan. My L. good morrow: good morrow Catesby: You may jest on, but by the holy Roode, I do not like thefe feuerall councels I. Haft. My L. I hold my life as deare as you do yours, And never in my life I do proteft,

Was it more precious to me then it is now: Thinke you but that I know out flate fecure,

Were incured, and supposed their states was fure,

Sea. The Lords at Pomfret when they rode from London

And

a would be fo tryumphant as I am?

And indeede had no cause to missing:

But set you see how soone the day orecast,

The suiden scab of rancor I missoubr,

Pray God, I say, I prove a needlesse coward,

But come my L. shall we to the Towers

Ht. I go, but stay, heare you not the newest

Hu. I go. but stay, heare you not the newes! This day those men you talke of, are beheaded.

Sta. They for their truth might better weare their heads,
Then some that have accuse them weare their hat:
But come my L. let vs away.

Exit L. Standley, & Cat.

Ha. Go you before, He follow prefently.

Enter Hastings a Pursuant.

Hast. Well met Hastings, how goes the world with thee?
Pur. The better that it please your good Lordship to ask.

Then when I met thee fall where now we meete:

Then was I going prisoner to the Tower, By the suggestion of the Queenes allies: But now I tell thee (keepen to thy selfe)

This day those enemies are pur to death, And I in better state then ever I was,

Pur. God hold it to your Honours good content.
Half. Gramercy Hallings, hold spend thou that.

He gines him his purfe.

Par. God fau your Lordship. Exit. Pur. Enter a Priest, Hast, What fir John you are well met.

I am beholding to you for your last dayes execuse:

Come the next Sabboth, and I will content you. He whif-Enter Buckingham. (persin his eare.

Buc. How now Lord Chamberlaine, what talking with a Your friends at Pons revelbey do need the Prieft: (Prieft:

You: Honoughath no the ruing workein hand.

Haft, Good faith and when I met this holy man,

Those men you talke of, came into my minde: What, go you to the Tower my Lord?

Bue. I dos but long I shall not stay.

Ishall returne before your Lordship thence.
Haft. Tis like enough, for Istay dinner there.

But, And Supper too, although thou knowst is not

Come

I'he'l ragedie

Come shall we goe along?

Enter Sir Richard Ratisffe, with the Lord Rivers,

Gray, and Vanghan, prisoners.

Rat. Come bring forth the prisoners.

Rim. Sir Richard Ratliffe, let me tell thee this:

To day shale thou behold a subject die,

For truth, for dutie, and for loyaltie.

Gray, God keepe the prince from all the pack of your

A knot you are of damned blood fuckers.

Riu. O Pomíret, Pomíret, Oh thou bloudie prilon,
Fatall and dominious to noble Peeres:
Within the guiltie closure of thy walles
Richard the fecond here was backt to death:
And for more flaunder to thy dismall soule,
We give the evp our guiltlesse blouds to drinke.

Gray. Now Margarets cuife is falne vpon our heads,

For standing by, when Richard stabd her sonne.

Ri. Then curst she Hallings, then curst she Buckingham,
Then curst she Richard-Oh remember God,
To heare her prayers for them as now for vs,
And for my sister, and her princely sonne:
Be satisfied deare God with our true blouds,
Which as thou knowest vniustly must be spile.

Rat. Come, come, dispatch, the limit of your lives is out.

Rin. Come Gray, come Vaughan, let vs all imbrace
And take our leave, vntill we meete in heaven. Exemn.

Enter the Lords to connfell.

Haft. My Lords at once, the cause why we are met, Is to determine of the coronation.

In Gods name say, when is this royall day?

Buc. Are all things fitting for that royall time?

Dar. It is, and let but nomination.

Bif. To morrow then, I guelle a happie time.

Buc. Who knowes the Lord Protectors minde herein?
Who is most inward with the noble Duke? (his mind.
Bi. Why you my Lo: me thinks you should soonest know

Buc. Who I my Lord we know each others faces:

But for our hearts, he knowes no more of mine,
Then I of yours a nor I no more of his then you of mines.

Lord

Lor, Hastings, you and he are neare in love.

Hast. I thanke his grace, I know he loves me well:
But for his purpose in the coronation
I have not sounded him, nor he deliverd
His graces pleasure any way therein:
But you my L. may name the time,
And in the Dukes behalfe ile give my voice,
Which I presume he will take in gentie part,

Bib. Now in good time here comes the Duke himselfe.

Enter Gloster.

Glo. My noble L. and cousens all good morrow,
I have bene long a sleeper, but now / hope
My absence doth neglect no great designes,
Which by my presence might have bene concluded.

Buc. Had not you come vpon your kew my Lord, William L. Hallings had now pronounft your part:

I meane your voice for crowning of the king.

Glo. Then my L. Hastings, no man might be bolder, His Lordship knowes me well, and loves me well,

Haft. / thanke your grace.

.Glo. My L. of Else. Byb. My Lord.

Go. When I was last in Holborne,
I sawe good strawberries in your garden there,
I do beseech you send for some of them.

Bib. I goe my Lord.

Glo. Cousen Buckingham, a word with you:
Catesby hath sounded Hastings in our businesse,
And findes the telly gentleman to hote,
As he will loose his head ere give consent,
His maisters sonne as worsh pfull he termes it,
Shall loose the royalise of Englands throane.

Buc. Withdraw you hence my E. He follow you. Ex. Glo.

Dar. We have not yet fee downe this day of triumph,

To mortow in mine opinion is too foone:

For I my felfe am not to well provided

As elfe I would be were the day prolonged.

Enter the Bulbopof Ene.

e. (berries.

Bi. Where is my L. Protector, I have fent for thele Braw-

. . ... a rageure

Haft. His Grace lookes cheerfully and smooth to day,
Theres some conceit or other likes him well,
When he doth bid good morrow with such a spirit.
I thinke there is never a man in Christendome,
That can lesser hide his love or hate then he:
For by his face straight shall you know his heart.
Dar. What of his heart perceive you in his face,
By any likelihood he shewed to day?
Haft. Mary, that with no man here he is offended,.
For if he were, he would have shewen it in his face,
Dar. I pray God he be not, I say.

Enter Glofter.

Glo. I pray you all, what do they deferve That do conspire my death with divellish plots, Of damned witchcraft, and that have prevaild V pon my bodie with their hellish charmes? Haft. The tender loue I beare your Grace my Lord. Makes me most forward in this noble presence, To doome the oftenders whatfoeuer they be: I fay my Lord they have deferred death. Gio. Then be your eyes the witnesse of this ill. See how I am bewitcht, behold mine arme. Is like a blafted fapling withered vp. This is that Edwards wife, that monftrous witch. Conforted with that harlot strumpet Shore, That by their witchcrafts thus have marked me. Hast. If they have done this thing my gratious Lord. Glo. If, thou protector of this damned strumpet, Telft thou me of iffes? thou art a traitor. Off with his head. Now by Saint Paul, I will not dine to day I sweare, Vntill I fee the fame, fome fee it done: The rest that love me, come and follow me, Exeunt, manet Ha, Wo wo for England, not a whit for me: Ca, with Hall. For I too fond might have prevented this: Scanley did dreame the boare did race his helme, But I disdaind it, and did scorne to flie, Three times to day my footecloth horse did flumble. And startled when he lookt vpon the Tower,

As loth to beare me to the flaughter-house.
Oh, now I want the Priest that spake to me,
I now repent I told the Pursuant,
As twere triumphing at mine enemies,
How they at Pomfret bloodily were butcherd,
And I my selfe secure in grace and fauour:
Oh Margaret, Margaret: now thy heavy curse
Is lighted on poore Hastings wretched head.

Cat. Dispatch my Lo: the Duke would be at dinner:

Make a short shrift, he longs to see your head.

Hast. O momentary state of worldly men,

Which we more hunt for, then for the grace of heaten:

Who builds his hopes in aire of your faire lookes,

Liues like a drunken Sayler on a mast,
Ready with every nod to tumble downe
Into the farall bowels of the deepe.

Come leade me to the blocke, beare him my head,
They smile at me, that shortly shall be dead. Exempt,

Enter Duke of Glofter and Buckingham in armor.

Glo. Come colen, canst thou quake & change thy colour & Murther thy breath in middle of a word, And then begin againe and stop againe, As if thou wert distraught and mad with terror.

Buc. Tut feare not me.

I can counterfeit the deepe Tragedian,
Speake, and looke backe, and prie on every fide:
Intending deepe suspition, gastly lookes
Are at my service like inforced smiles,
And both are readic in their offices
To grace my stratagems.

Enter Maior.

Glo. Here comes the Maior.

Buc. Let me alone to entertaine him, L. Maior,

Glo. Looke to the drawbridge there.

Buc. The reason we have sent for you.

Glo. Catesby ouerlooke the walles.

Buc, Harke, I heare a drumme.

Glo. Looke backe, defend thee, here are enemies.

Buc. God and our innocencie defend vs.

Glo. G. O, be quiet, it is Catesby.

Enter

The Tragedie

Enter Caterby with Hallings boad.

Cat. Here is the head of that ignoble traitor.

The dangerous and valufacted Hallings.

Glo. So deare I lou'd the man, that I must weepe:
I tooke him for the plainest harmelesse man.

That breathed vpon this earth a Christian:
Looke ye my Lord Maior:

Made him my booke wherein my soule recorded.

The Historie of all her secret thoughts:
So smooth he daub'd his vice with shew of vertue.

That his apparant open guilt omitted:
Imeane his conversation with Shores wise,
He laid from all attainder of suspect.

Buck, Well, well, he was the coverest shelted.

That ever hive d, would you have imagined,
Or almost believe, were not by great preservatio
We live to tell it you? The subtile traitor
Had this day plotted in the counsell house,
To murder me, and my good Lord of Glocester.

Mayor. What, had he so?

Glo. What thinke ye we are Turks or Infidels.
Or that we would against the course of Law,
Proceed thus rashly to the villaines death,
But that the extreame perils of the case,
The peace of England, and our persons safetie
Inforst vs to this execution?

Ma. Now faire befall you be deferred his death,
And you my good L. born, have well proceeded,
To warne falle traitors from the like attempts:
I nener looks for better at his hands,
After he once fell in with Mistrelle Shore.

Clo. Yet had not we determined he should die, Whill your Lordship came to see his death, Which now the longing haste of these our friends. Somewhat against our meaning haue pruented, Beduse my Lord, were would have had you heard. The traiter speake, and timerously confesse. The manner, and the purpose of histreason, That you might well have signified the same

Vinto the Citizens, who happily may
Misconster vs inshim, and wayle his death.

Ma. My good L. your Graces word shall serue
As well as I had seene or heard him speake,
And doubt you not right noble Princes both,
But Ile acquaint your dutious Citizens
With all your just proceedings in this cause.

Glo. And to that end we wisht your Lordship
To avoid the carping sensures of the word (here,
Buc, But since you came too late of our intents,
Yet witnesse what we did intend, and so my Lord adve,
Clo. A few after Confee Buckingham.

Glo. After, after, Coulen Buckingham. The Maior towards Guild-hall hies him in all polt, There at your meerft advantage of the time. Inferre the bafterdy of Edwards children: Tell them how Edward put to death a Citizen, Onely for faying he would make his fonne. Heire to the Crowne, meaning (indeed) his house, Which by the figne thereof was tearmed fo. Moreouer, vrge his hatefull luxurie, And bestiall apperite in change of lust, Which stretched to their servants, daughters, wives, Even where his luftfull eye, or favage heart, Without controll lifted to make his prey: Nay for a need thus farre come neere my person, Tell them, when that my mother went with child Of that vnfariate Edward, noble In France, My Princely father then had walk And by just computation of the time Found, that the iffue was not his begot, Which well appeared in his lineautents, Being nothing like the noble Dule my father: But touch this sparingly as it were forre off, Because you know my Lord, my mother lines.

Buc. Faree not, my Lord, He play the Orator, As if the golden fee for which I pleade Were for my felte.

Glo, If you thrine well, bring them to Baynards Callle, Where you shall finde me well accompanied

 $G_3$

With

The Tragedie

With reverend fathers and well learned Bishops.

Buc. About three or foure a clocke looke to heare
What newes Guild hall affordeth, and so my L. farwell.

Gio. Now will I in to take some prime order Ex.B

To draw the Brats of Clarence out of fight,

And to give notice that no manner person

At any time have recounse vinto the Princes.

Enter a Scrimener with a paper in bis hand,

This is the Indictment of the good L. Hastings,
Which in a set hand fairely is engrossed.
That it may be this day read ouer in Pauls:
And marke how well the sequel hangs together,
Eleuen houres I spent to write it ouer.
For yesternight by Catesby was it brought me,
The president was full as long a dooing,
And yet within these fine houres hued L. Hastings,
Vintanted, vinexamined: free, at libertie:
Here's a good world the while. Why, who's so grosse.
That sees not this pa'paple deuice?
Yet who so blind but saves he sees it not?

Yet who so blind but sayes he sees it not?
Bad is the world, and all will come to nought,
When such bad dealing must be seene in thought. Exit.

Enter Glocester at one doore Buckingbam at another.
Glo. How now my L. what say the Citizens?

Buc. Now by the holy mother of our Lord, The Citizens are mumme, and speake not a word.

Gio. Toucht you the stardy of Edwards childrens Buc, I did with the start greedinesse of his desires,

His tyranny for trifles: his owne baftardy,
As being got, your father then in France:
Withal! I did inferre your lienaments,
Being the right Idea of your father,
Both in one forme and nobles elle of minde:
Layd open all your victories in Scotland:
Your Discipline in warre, wifedom in peace:
Your bouncie, vertue, faire himilitie:
Indeed left northing fitting for the purpose
Vintouch's, or flieghtly handled in discourse:
And when my Oratorie grew to end,

Ibid

Exit.

I bid them that lones their Countries good, Cry, God faue Richard, Englands royall King.

Glo. A, and did they for

But like dumbe statues or breathlesse stones,

But like dumbe statues or breathlesse stones, Gazde each on other and looks deadly pale:

Which when I faw, I reprehended them? (lence? And aske the Mayor what meant this wilfull fi-

His answere was, the people were not wont

To be spoke too, but by the Recorder.

Then he was vrgde to tell my tale againe:

Thus faith the Duke, thus hath the Duke inferd

But nothing spake in warrant from himselfe:

When he had done some followers of mine owne

At the lower end of the hall, hurled up their caps, And some ten voyces cryed, God saue King Richard:

Thankes louing Citizens and friends quoth I,

This generall applause and louing shoute,

Argues your wisedome and your loves to Richard:

And to brake off and came away.

Glo. What tonguelesse blocks were they, would they not Buc. No by my troth my Lord. (speaker

Gio, Will not the Mayor then, and his brethren come?

Buc. The Maior is heere: and intendiome feare,

Be not spoken withall, but with mightie fute:

And looke you get a prayer booke in your hand,

And fland betwixt two Church-men good my Lord,

For on that ground lle build a holy descant :

Be not eafre wonne to our request :

Play the maydes part, fay no, but take it.

Glo. Feare not me, if thou canst pleade as well for them,

As I can fay may to thee for my felfe,

No doubt weele bring it to a happy illue.

Buc. You shal see what I can do, get you up to the leads, Ex.

Now my Lord Mayor, I dance attendance here,

I thinke the Duke will not be spoken withall. Emer Caterby. Here comes his servant: how now Caterby what sayes he?

Cat. My Lord he doth entreat your Grace

To vifit him to morrow, or next day:

THE I Tagedie He is within with two reverend Fathers, Divinely bent to meditation, And in no worldly fute would he be mou'd, To draw him from his holy exercise. Buc. Returne good Catesby to thy Lord again, Tell him my felte, the Major and Citizens, In deepe delignes and marters of great moment, No leffe importing then our generall good, Are come to have fome coference with his grace. Cat. He tell him what you fay my Lord. Exis. Buc. A ha my Lord, this prince is not an Edward: He is not fulling on a leaud day bed, But on his knees at meditation: Not dallying with a brace of Curtizans, But meditating with two deepe Dinines: Not fleeping to ingroffe his idle body, But praying to inrich his watchfull foule, Happy were England, would this gracious prince Take on himselfe the soueraigntie thereon, But fure I feare we shall never winne him to it. Mai, Marry God forbid his grace should fay ve nay. Enter Catesby.

Buc. I feare he will, how now Catesby,

What fayes your Lord?

Cat. My Lihe wonders to what end you have affembled Such troupes of Catizens to speake with him, His grace not being warnd thereof before, My Lord, he feares you meane no good to him.

Buc. Sory I am my noble cousen should Suspect me that I meane no good to him.
By heaven I come in perfect love to him,
And so once more returne and tell his grace: Exit Catesby.
When holy and devout religious men,
Are at their beads, its hard to draw them thence,
So sweet is zealous contemplation,
Enter Rich and two Bishops aloft.

Maior. See where he stands between two Clergy men.

Buc. Two props of vertue for a Christian Prince,

To stay him from the fall of vanitie,

Famous

Famous Plantagenet, most gracious Prince,
Lend fauourable cares to my sequely
And pardon vs the interruption
Of thy denotion and right Christian zeale.

Glo, My Lord, there needs no fuch apologie, I rather do befeech you pardon me, Who earnest in the service of my God, Neglect the visitation of my friends:
But leaving this, what is your Graces pleasure:

Buc. Even that I hope which pleafeth God above, And all good men of this vingouerned Ile.

Cla. I do suspect, I have done some offence,
That seemes disgrations in the Cities eyes,
And that you come to reprehend my ignorance,
Buc, You have my Lord: would it please your Grace

At our entreaties to amend that fault,

Glo, Els wherefore breath I in a Christian land?

Buc. Then know it is your fault that you religne The Supreame Seate, the Throne maietticall, The Sceptred office of your Aunceftors, The lineal! glory of your royall House, To the corruption of a blemifht ftocke: Whileft in the mildeneffe of your fleepie thoughts, Which here we waken to our Countryes good: This noble Ile doth want his proper limbes, Her face defac't with flars of infamie, And almost shouldred in this swallowing gulph, Of blind forgetfulnefle and darke oblinion: Which to recure we heartily folicite Your Gracious selfe to take on you the sourraigntie thereof, Not is Protector, Stweward, Substitute, Nor lowly Factor for an others gaine? But as fuccessively from blood to blood, Your right of birth, your Emperie, your owne? For this conforted with the Citizens, Your worthipfull and very loting friens, And by their vehement infligation, In this just fute come I to move your Grace.

Gla

66. Iknow not whether to depart in fileses

Or bitrerly to speake in your reproofe, :: : Best fitterh my degree or your condition : Your love deferues my thankes, but my defeat V nmeritable shunnes your high request. First if all obstacles were cue away, And that my path were even to the crowne, A my right revenew and due by birth Yet fo much is my pouertie of sprit, So mightie and fo many my defects, As I had rather hide me from my greatnelle, Being a Barke to brooke no mightie lea, Then in my greatnelle couet to be hid-And in the vapour of my glory imothered: But God be thanked theres no need for me, And much I need to helpe you if need were, The royall tree hath left vs royall fruite, Which mellowed by the stealing houres of times. Will well become the feate of maieftie: And make no doubt vs happie by his raigne. On him I lay what you would lay on me: The right and fortune of his happie starres. Which God defend that I should wring fro him. Buc, My lord, this argues coscience in your grace, But the respects thereof are nice and trimialle Alf circumstances well confidered. You fay that Edward is your brothers fonne, So fay we too, but not by Edwards wife: For first he was contract to Lady Lucy, Your mother lives, a witnesse to that vow, And afterward by Substitute betrothed To Bona, fifter to the king of France, These both put by a poore petitioner, A care-crazd mother of many children, A beauty-waining and diffrested widowe, Euen in the afternoone of her best dayes, Made prife and purchale of his luftfull eye, Seduc't the pitch and height of all his thoughts, of Richard the third.

To base declension and loathd bigamie,
By her in his vulawfull bed he got,
This Edward, whom our maners terme the prince:
More bitterly could I expostulate,
Saue that for reuerence to some aline
I give a sparing limit to my tongue:
Then good my Lord, take to your royall selfe,
This proffered benefit of dignitie:
If not to blesse vs and the land withall,
Yet to draw out your royall stocke,
From the corruption of abusing time,
Vnto a lineall true derived course.

Mai. Do good my Lord, your citizens entreat you

Mai. Do good my Lord, your citizens entreat you. Cat. O make them joyfull, grant their lawfull fute.

Glo. Alasywhy would you heapethole cares on me, I am unfit for state and dignitie:

I do beferch you take it not amille, I cannor, nor I will not yeeld to you.

Buc. If you refule it as in love and zeale,
Loth to depose the childe your brothers sonne,
As well we know your tendernesse of heart,
And gentle kind efferminate remorse,
Which we have noted in you to your kin,
And egally indeed to all estates,
Yet whether you accept our sute or no.
Your brothers sonne shall never raigne our king,
But we will plant some other in the throne,
To the disgrace and downfall of your house:
And in this resolution here we leave you.
Come Citizens, zounds lie intreat no more,
Che. O do not sweare my Lord of Buckingham.

Cto. O do not sweare my Lord of Buckingham.

Cat. Call them again, my Lord, and accept their sure.

Ano. Do, good my Lord, least all the land do rew it.

Since

Glo. Would you enforce me to a world of care a Well, call them againe, I am not made of stones, But penetrable to your kind intreats, Albeit against my conscience and my soule.

Cosen of Buckingham, and you sage grave men,

I the ridgedic

Since your will buckle fortune on my backe,
To beare the butthen whether I will or no,
I must have pacience to endure the loade,
But if blacke scandale or so soule fac't reproach
Attend the scquell of your imposition,
Your meere inforcement shall acquittance me
From all the impure blots and staines thereof,
For God he knowes, and you may partly see,
How farre I am from the desire thereof.

May. God bleffe your Grace, we fee it, and will fay it, Gw. In faying so you shall but say the truth, Buc. Then I salute you with this kingly Title:

Long line King Richard, Englands royall King.

Buc. To morrow will it please you to be crown'd?

Glo. Euen when you will, since you will have it so.

Buc. To morrow then we will attend your Grace.

Glo. Come, let vs to our holy taske againe:

Farewell good Cousen, farewell gentle friends.

Exem

newell good Coulen, tarewell gentle friends. Exeunt,
Enter Queene mother, Dutchesse of Korke, Marques
Dorset at one doors, Dutchesse of Glocester at another doors.

Dui. Who meets vs heere, my Neece Plantagenets
Qu., Sifter well met, whether away so fasts
Dut. Glo. No farther then the Tower, and as I guesse
Vpon the like denotion as your selues,
To gratulate the tender Princes there.

Qu. Kind lifter thanks, weele enter all togither.

Enter the Lieutenant of the Tomer.

And in good time here the Lieutenant comes.

M. Lieuetenant, pray you by your leaue,
How fares the Prince?

Lien, Well Madam, and in health: but by your leane, I may not fuffer you to visit him,
The King hath straightly charged the contrary,

Q. The King? why, who's that?

Lian, I cry you mercie, I meane the Lord Protector.

Qu. The Lord protect him from that Kingly title:

Hath he fet bounds betwist their love and me:

I am their mother, who should keepe me from them? I am their father, mother, and will fee them. Dat. Glo. Their Aunt I am in law, in love their mother : Then feare not thou. He bearethy blame; And take thy office from thee on my perill. Lien. I do befeech your Graces all to pardon me: I am bound by oath, I may not do it.

Enter Lard Standing

Stan. Let me but meete you Ladies an houre hence. And Ile falute your Grace of Yorkeas mother : And reverent looker on, of two faire Queenes. Come Madam, you must go with me to Westminster. There to be crowned Richards royall Queene.

Qu. Ocut my lace in funder, that my pent heart May have some scope to beate, or else found

With this dead killing newes,

Dor. Madame, have comfort, how fares your Grace?

Qu. O Dorfet, speake not to me, get thee hence, Death and destruction dogge thee at the heeles, Thy mothers name is ominous to children, If thou wilt outling death, goe croffe the leas, And live with Richmond, from the reach of hell, Goe hie thre, hie thee, from this flaughter house, Least thou increase the number of the dead. And make-me die the thrall of Margarets curfe, Nor mother, wife, nor Englands counted Queene.

Stan. Full of wife care is this your counfell Madam. Take all the swift advantage of the time, You shall have letters from me to my sonne, To meete you on the way, and welcome you, Be not taken tardie, by vnwife delay.

Dut. Tor. Oill dispearling winde of miserie, O my accurfed wombe, the bed of death, A Cocatrice half thou hatcht to the world. Whose vnauoyded eye is murtherous.

Sten. Come Madam, I in all hafte was fent for. Duch, And I in all vnwillingnesse will goe, I would to God that the inclusive verge Of golden mettall that must round my browe,

Were

The Trageore Were red hotte fteele to feare me to the braine, Annointed let me with deadly poylon, And die, ere men can lay, God laue the Queene. Qu. Alas poore foule, I enuie not thy glory, To feede my humor wish thy Celfe no harme. Dut Glo. No, when he that is my husband now, Came to me as I followed Henries courle, When scarce the blood was well washe from his hands, Which issued from my other angel husband, And that dead faint, which then I weeping followed, O, when I lay, I look on Richards face, This was my wish, be thou quoth /accurity For making me so yong, so old a widow. And when thou wedft, let forrow haunt thy bed, And be thy wife, if any belo badde As miserable by the death of thee, As thou haft made me by my deare Lords death, Loe, euen I can repeate this curfe againe, Euen in so short a space, my womans heart Croffy grew captine to his hony words, And prou'd the sublects of my owne soules curles Which eyer lince bath kept my eyes from fleepe, For neuer yet, one houre in his bed, Haue I enjoyed the golden deaw of fleepe, But have bene waked by his rimerous dreames, Befides, he hates me for my father Warwickes And will shortly be rid of me. Qu. Alas poore soule, I pitrie thy complaints, Dat. Glo. No more the from my foule I mourne for yours Qu. Farewell, thou wofull welcomer of glorie. Dut. Glo. A due poore soule, thou takst thy leave of it. Du, Yor. Go thou to Richmod, & good forme guide thes. Go thou to Richard, and good Angels guard thee, Go thou to fanctuariegood thoughts possesse thee, I to my grave where peace and reft lie with me, Eightie odde yeares of forrow have I feene, And each houres ioy wrackt with a weeke of teene.

The Frampets found, Enter Richard crowned, Buchingbarn, Catesby, with other Nobles.

King. Standall spart, Colen of Buckingham, Give me thy hand : Here be afcendeth Thus high by thy advice And thy affiltance is king Richard feated's But shall we weare these honors for a day ? Or shall they last, and wereioyce in them? Buc. Still twe they and for ever may they laft, Kin, Ri. O Buckingham, now I do play she touch, To trie if thou be current gold indeed: Yong Edward lives: thinke now what I would fay. Buc. Say on my gratious foreraigne. King. Why Buckingham, I fay I would be king. Buc. Why fo you are my thrice renowmed bege. King. Ha : am I king ? tis fo, but Edward hoes. Buc. True noble Prince. King. O bitter confequences That Ed ward Still should how erus noble Prince. Colen, thou were not wont to be fo dull: Shall I be plaine? I wish the baftards dead. And I would have it fuddenly performe. What faift thou ! speake suddenly, be briefe. Buc. Your Grace may do your pleasure, King. Tot,tut, thou are all yce, thy kindnesse freezeth, Say, have I thy content that they shall die? Buc. Gige me some breath, some little paule my Lord. Before I politiuely speake herein: I will refolue your Grace immediatly. Cat. The king is angry, see, he bites the lip, King. I will converfe with iron witted fooles, And vnrespective boyes, none are for the That looke into me with confiderate eyest Boy, high reaching Buckingham growes circumspect. Boy. Eard.

THE TINGCHIE

Would rempt vnto a close exploit of death,

Boy. My Lord, I know a discontented Gentlemen,
Whose humble meanes match not his haughtie minde,
Gold were as good as twentie Orators,
And will no doubt tempt him to any thing.

King, What is his name?

Boy. His name my Lord, is Tirrell,

King. Goe call him hither presently.

Boy. His name my Lord, is Tirrell,

King. Goe call him hither preferrly.

The deepe renoluing withe Buckingham,

No more shall be the neighbour to my counsell,

Hath he so long held out with me vntirde

And stops he now for breath?

Enter Darby.

How now, what newes with you?

Dar. My Lord, I heate the Marquelle Dorlet

Is fled to Richmond, in those pasts beyond the seas where he abides.

, King. Catesby. Cat. My Lord. King. Rumor it abroad That Anne my wife is licke and like to die, I will take order for her keeping clofe: Enquire me out some meane borne Gentleman, Whom I wil marry straight to Clarence daughter, The boy is foolish, and I feare not him: Looke how thou dreamft : I say againe, give out That Anne my wife is ficke and like to die, About it, for it stands me much vpon. To stop all hopes whose growth may damage me, I must be married to my brothers daughter, Or elle my kingdome stands on brittle glasse; Murther her brothers, and then marry her, Vncertaine way of gaine, but I am in So farre in blood, that fin plucke on fin,

Teare falling puttie dwels not in this eye.

Enter Tirrel.

Is thy name Tirrell?

Tir, James Tirrel, and your most obedient subject.

King. Art thou indeed?

Tir. Prope me my gracious foueraigne.

King. Darft thou resolue to kill a friend of mine?

Tir. I my Lord, but I had rather kill two deepe enemies.

King. Why there thou half it, two deepe enemies, Foes to my reft, and my fweete fleepes diffurbs,

Are they that I would have thee deale wpon:

Tirrel, I meane those bastards in the tower.

Tir. Let me have open meanes to come to them,

And foone Herid you from the feare of them,

King. Thou fingst sweete mulicke. Come hither Tirrish, Go by that token, rise and lend thine ears, He whither in his Tis no more but so, say it is done (ears.

And I will love thee, and prefere thee too,

Tir. Tis done my gracious Lord,

King. Shall we heare from thee Tirrel, cre'we fleepe ?

Enter Buckrugham.

Tir. Ye fhall my Lord

Buc. My Lord, I have confidered in my mind,

The late demaund that you did found me in.

King. Wellylet that paffe, Dorfet is fled to Richmond,

Buc, I heafe that newes my Lord,

King. Stanty he is your wives formes. Wel looke too it.

For which your honor and your faith is pawnd,

The Earledone of Herford and the moveables, The which you promifed I flouid posselle.

King. Stanly looke to your wife, if the convey

Letters to Richmond you shall answere it,

Buc. What layes your highnesse to my just demaund?

King. As I remember, Henry the fixt

Did prophefie that Richmond should be king,

When Richmond was a little pecuish boy,

A king perhaps, perhaps. Buck. My Lord.

King. How chance the Prophet could not at that time,

Houe told me, I being by, that I should kill him.

Buck My Lord, your promise for the Earldome.

King. Richmond, when laft I was at Exeter, The Major in currefie shewed me the Calle,

I

And

And called it Ruge-mount, at which name I flarted, Because a Bard of Ireland told me once I should not live long after I saw Richmond.

Buc. My Lord

King. I, whatsa clocke?

Buc. I am thus bold to put your grace in minde

Of what you promilde me.

King, Well but whats a clocke?

Buc. Vpon the stroke of ten.

Ring. Well, let it ftrike. Buc. Why let it ftrike?

King. Because that like a lacke thou keepft the ftroke

Betwixt thy begging and my meditation, I am not in the giving vame to day.

Buc. Why then resolve me whether you will or no?

K. Tur, tut, thou troublest me, I am not in the vaine. Exit.

Buc. Is it even fo trewards he my true feruice

With fuch deepe contempt, made I him king for this?

Oler methinke on Hastings, and begone.

To Brecnock, while my fearefull head is on.

Enter Sir Francu Tirrell.

Tir. The tyramous and bloudie deed is done, The most arch act of pitteous massacre, That ever yet this land was guiltie of, Dishton and Forrest whom I did subborne To do thir ruthfull peece of butchery, Although they were flethe villains, bloudy dogs, Melting with tendernelle and kind compallion, Wept like two children in their deaths (ad ftories: Loe thus quoth Dighton laie those tender babes Thus thus quoth Forrest girdling one another Within their innocent alablafter armes, Their lips like foure red Roles on a stalke, Which in their formmer beautie kill each other, A booke of praiers on their pillow laie, Which once quoth Forrest almost change my minde. But O the divel : there the villaine stope, Whilft Dighton thus told on we imothered The

The most replenished sweet worke of nature,
That from the prime creation ever he framed,
They could not speake, and so I left them both,
To bring this tydings to the bloudy king.
Enter king Richard,

And here he comes, All haile my fou eraigne liege.

King. Kind Tirrell, am I happie in thy newes?

Tir. If to have done the thing you gave in charge
Beget your happinesse, be happie then.

For it is done my Lord.

King. But didft thou fee them dead? Tur. I did my Lord.

King. And buried gentle Tirrell?
Tir, The Chaplaine of the Tower bath buried thems

But how or in what place I do not know.

King. Come to me Tirrell foone at after supper,
And thou shalt tell the processe of their death,
Meane time but thinke how I may do thee good,
And be inheritor of thy defire.

Exit Tirrell,
Farewell till soone.

The sonne of Clarence have I pent vp close,
His daughter meanly have I matcht in marriage,
The sonnes of Edward sleepe in Abrahams bosome,
And Anne my wife hath bid the world goodnight;
Now for I know the Brittaine Richmond aimes
At yong Elizabeth my brothers daughter,
And by that knot lookes proudly ore the crowne,
To her I goe a iolly thriuing wooer, Enter Catesby.

Ca. My Lord

Kin. Good newes or bad, that thou comest in so bluntly?

Cat. Bad newes my Lord, Ety is fled to Richmond,

And Buckingham backt with the hardy Welchmen

Is in the field, and still his power encreaseth.

King. Ely with Richmond troubles me more neare. Then Buckingham and his rash leuied army:
Come, I have heard that fearfull commenting,
Is leaden service to dull delay,
Delay leads importent and snaile-pac't beggery,

Then

Then fierie expedition be my wings,
Ioue, Mercurie and Herald for a king.
Come muster men, my comfaile is my shield,
We must be briefe, when traytors braue the field. Exemp.

Enter Queeno Margaret fola.

And drop into the rotten mouth of death:
Here in these confines slille have I lurkt,
To watch the waining of mine adversaries:
A dire industion am I witnesse too,
And will to France, hoping the consequence
Will prove as bitter, blacke, and tragicall.
Withdraw thee wterched Margaret, who comes here?

Enter the Queone, and the Dutcheffe of Yorke.

Qu. Ah my yong Princes, ah my tender babes!
My vnblowne flowers, new appearing sweets,
If yet your gentle soules flie in the aire.
And be not fixt in doome perpetuall,
Houer about me with your aierie wings,
And beare your mothers lamentation.

Qu. Mar. Hover about her, say that right for right Hath dimd your infant morne, to aged night.

Qu. Wilt thou O God, flie from such gentle lamber, And throw them in the intrailes of the wolfe: When didst thou sleepe, when such a decd was done?

Qu.Ma. When holy Mary died, and my sweet sonne.

Dutch. Blind fight, dead life, poore mortall huing ghost,

Woes sceane, worlds shame, graves due by life vsurpe,

Rest thy vnrest on Englands lawfull earth,

Vn'awfully made drunke with innocents blood.

Qu. O that thou wouldft as well affoord a graue,
As thou canst yeeld a melancholy seate,
Then would I hide my bones, not rest them here:
O who hath any cause to mourne but I?

Dm.

Dur. So many miseries have craz'd my voice That my woe-wearied tongue is mure & dumbe. Edward Plantagenet, why are thou dead?

Q.Mar. If auncient forrow be most reverent,
Giue mine the benefit of signorie,
And let my woes frowne on the vpper hand,
If sorrow can admit societie,
T'ell ouer your woes againe by viewing mine:
I had an Edward, rill a Richard kild him:
I had a Richard till a Richard kild him.
Thou hadst an Edward, rill a Richard kild him.
Thou hadst a Richard, till a Richard kild him.
Thou hadst a Richard, till a Richard kild him.

Dw. I had a Richard too, and thou didft kil him: I had a Rutland too, and thou holpft to kill him.

Q. Mar. Thou hadft a Clarence too, ril Richard kild him.
From forth the kennell of thy wombe hath crept,
A hell-hound that doth hunt vs all to death,
That dogge that had his teeth before his eyes
To worne lambes, and lap their gentle bloods,
That foule defacer of Gods handy worke,
Thy wombe let loofe, to chafe vs to our graves,
O vpright, iuft, and true disposing God,
How do I thanke thee, that this carnall curre
Praies on the issue of his mothers bodie,
And makes her pue-fellow with others mone.
Dut. O, Harries wife, triumph not in my woes.

God witnesse with me, I have wept for thee.

2. Mar. Bear with me, I am hungry for revenge
And now I cloie me with beholding at:
Thy Edward, he is dead, that stabd my Edward,
Thy other Edward dead, to quit my Edward,
Yong Yorke, he is but boote, because both they
Match not the high perfection of my losse:
Thy Clarence he is dead, that kild my Edward,
And the beholders of this tragicke plaie,
The adulterate Hastings, Rivers, Vaughan, Gray,
Vitimely smothred in their duskie graves,
Richard yet lives, hels blacke intelligencer,

Onely :

The Tragedie Onely referred their factor to buy foules, And fend them thither, but at hand at hand, Enfues his pitcous, and vapittied end, Earth gapes, hell burnes, frends roare, Saints pray, To have him fuddenly conneyed away. Cancell his bond of life, deare God I pray, That I may bue to fay, the dog is dead, Qu. O thou didft prophecie the time would come That I should wish for thee to helpe me curile That botteld spider, that foule hunch-backt toade. 2. Mar. I cald thee then, vaine flourish of my fortune, I cald thee then, poore shadow, painted Queene, The presentation of, but what I was, The flattering index of a direfull pageant, One heau'd a high, to be hurld downe below, A mother onely, mockt with two sweet babes, A dreame of which thou wert, a breath, a bubble, A figne of dignitie, a garish flagge, To be the aime of every dangerous shoe, A Queene in least, onely to fill the sceane: Where is thy husband now, where be thy brothers? Where be thy children, wherein doeft thou ioy? Who fues to thee and cries God faue the Queene? Where be the bending peeres that flattered thee? Where be the thronging troupes that followed thee? Decline all this, and see what now thou art, For happy wife, a most distressed widow: For joyfull mother, one that wailes the name: For Queene, a very Catine crownd with care: For one being fued too, one that humbly fues: For one commanding allobeyed of none: For one that fcornd at me, now fcornd of me. Thus hath the course of justice wheel'd about, And left thee but a very prey to time, Hauing no more, but thought of what thou art, To corture thee the more, being what thou art. Thou didft viurpe my place, and doeft thou not Viurpe the just proportion of my fortow? Now

Nowthy proud necke, beares halfe my burthened yoke,
From which, euen here, I flip my weary necke,
And leave the burthen of it all on thee:
Farewell Yorkes wife, and Queene of fad mischance,
These English woes, will make me smile in France,

Qu. Othou well skild in curfes, flay a while, And teach me how to curfe mine enemies.

Q.Mar. Forbeare to fleep the night, and faft the day, Compare dead happinesse with living woe, Thinke that thy babes were fairer then they were. And he that flew them sowler then he is:

Bettring thy losse makes the bad causer worse, Revoluing this, will teach thee how to curse.

Qu. My words are dull, O quicken them with thine, Q.M. Thy woes wil make them sharp, & pierce like mine. Dut. Why should calamitie be full of words? Exit Mare.

Qu, Windie atturnies to your client woes, Aierie focceeders of intestate ioyes, Poore brothing orators of miscries, Let them have scope, though what they do impart Helpe not at all, yet do they ease the heats.

Dut. If so, then be not toong-tide, goe with me,
And in the breath of bitter words, lets smother
My damned some, which thy two somes smothred:
I heare his drum, be copious in exclaimes,

Enter King Richard marching with Drammes and Trumpets.

Ring. Who intercepts my expeditions?

Dut. A she, that might have intercepted thee,

By strangling thee in her accursed wombe,

From all the slaughters wretch, that thou hast done,

Qu., Hid'st thou that forehead with a golden crowne,

Where should be graven, if that right were right,

The slaughter of the Prince that owde that crowne,

And the dire death of my two sonnes, and brothers:

Tell me thou villaine slaue, where are my children?

De. Thou tode, thou tode, where is thy brother Chrece? And little Ned Plantaget, his sonne ? 24. Where is kind Hallings, Rivers, Vaughan, Gray? Kmg. A flourish trumpers, strike alarum drummes, Let not the heavens heare thefe tel-tale women. Raile on the Lords annointed. Strike I fay. The trampets Either be patient, and intreat me faire, founds. Or with the clamorous report of warre, Thus will I drowne your exclamations. Dut. Art thou my fonne? King. I, I thanke God, my father and your felfe. Dut. Then patiently heare my impatience. King. Madame I have a touch of your conditions Which cannot brooke the accent of reproofe. Due. I will be mildeand gentle in my speech. King. And briefe good mother, for I am in halle. Dat. Art thou lo haltie I have flaid for thee, God knowes in anguish, paine and agonie. King. And came I not at last to comfort you? Dut. No by the holy roode thou knowst it well, Thou carnft on earth, to make the earth my hell: A greenous burthen was thy birth to me, Techie and waiward was thy infancie, Thy schoole-daies frightfull, desperate, wilde and forious: Thy age confirmed, proud, subtil, bloudie, trecherous, What comfortable houre canst thou name, That ever grac't me in thy companie? K. Faith none but Humphrey houre, that eald your grace To breakfast once forth of my companie: If it be so gratious in your fight, Let me march on, and not offend your grace. Dui. O heare me speake, for I shall never fee the more. King. Come, come, you are too bitter. Dut, Either thou wilt die by Gods just ordinance, Fre from this warre thou turne a conqueror, Or I with griefe and extreams age shall perish. And never looke vpon thy face againe: Therefore take with thee my most heavie curse,

Which in the day of battell tire thee more
Then all the compleat armout that thou wearst,
My praiers on the adverse partie fight,
And there the little soules of Edwards children
Whisper the spirits of thine enemies,
And promise them successe and victory,
Bloudie thou art, bloudy will be thy end,
Shame serves thy list, and doth thy death attend.

Exist.

2n. Though far more cause, yet much lesse spirit to curse

Abides in me, I fay Amen to all.

King. Stay Madam, I must speake a word with you.

Qn. I have no more somes of the royall blood, For thee to murther, for my daughters Richard, They shall be praying Nunnes, not weeping Queenes, And therefore levell not to hit their lives.

King. You have a daughter cald Elizabeth, Vertuous and faire, toyall and gratious,

And Ile corrupt her manners, staine her beautie,
Slander my selse, as false to Edwards bed,
Throw ouer her the vale of infamie,
So she may line vinskard from bleeding slaughter,
I will confesse she was not Edwards daughter.
King. Wrong not her birth, she is of royall blood.

Q. To faue her life, ile fay the is not fo.

King. Her life is only fafeft in her birth.

Qu. And only in that fafetie died her brothers.

Kin. Lo at their births good ftars were opposite.

Qu. No to their liues bad friends were contrary.

King. All vnanoyded is the doome of desteny.

Qu. True, when an anoyded grace makes destiny,

My babes were destinde to a fairer death, If grace had blest thee with a fairer life.

R. Madam, so thrive I in my dangerous attempt of hostile
As I intend more good to you and yours,
(armes)

Then ener you or yours were by me wrongd.

Qu, What good is courtd with the face of heauen,

To be discoverd that can do me good?

King. The advancement of your children mightie Lady.

I ue i rageuie

In. Vp to some scattold, there to loose their heads. King. No to the dignitie and height of honor, The height imperial leipe of this earth glory, Qu. Flatter my forrowes with report of it, Tell me what flate, what dignere, what hoper, Canft thou demile to any child of mine ? King. Euen all I have; yea and my felfe and all. Will I wirhall endowachild of thine, So in the Lethe of thy angry foule, Thou drowne the fairemembrance of those wrongs Which thou supposest I have done to thee. 24. Bebriefe, lett that the proceife of thy kindnelle

Last longer relling then thy kindnesse doo.

K. Then know that from my foule I love thy daughter, 2n. My daughters mother thinkes it with her foule.

King. What do you thinke !

24. That thou doest love my daughter from thy soule. So from thy foules love didft thou her brothers, And from my hearts love I dothanke thee for it.

King. Be not so hastie to confound my meaning, I meane that with my foule I love thy daughter, And meane to make her Queene of England.

Qu. Say then, who doe't thou meane thall be her king ? King. Even he that makes her Queene, who should eifer

On. What thou?

King. I, even I, what thinke you of it Madame?

24. How canft thou were her? Kma. That I would learne of you.

As one that were b. It acquainted with her humor ...

Qu. And will thou learne of me? King. Madam with ail my heart;

Que. Send to herby the man that flew her brothers. A paire of bleeding hearts, thereon ingrave, Elward and Yorkesthen happily the will weepe, Therefore prefent to her,a. fometime Margaret Did to thy father, a handkercheffe fteers in Rutlans blood, And birther drie her weeping eyes therewith, It this inducement force her nor to love, Send her aftory of thy noble acts: Tell her thou mad'it away her vncle Clarence, Madest quicke conneisnce with her good Aune Anne.

King, Come, come, ye mocke me, this is not the way

Townne your daughter,

Que There is no other way,
Vale lie thou couldft put on forme other thape,
And not be Richard that bath done all this.

Kin. Inferre foire Englands peace by this alliance.

Qu, Which the shall purchase with still lesting warre.

Kin. Sav that the king which may command intrears.

2. That at the hands which the kings king forbid.
King Say the shall be a high and mightie Queene.

Qu. To wale the ricle in her mother doth, King, Say I will lone her enerlattingly.

2n. But how long shall that eitle ever last?

King. Sweetly inforce vnto her faire lives end,

Qu. But how long fairely fhall that title, laft?

Kin, So long as heaven and nature lengthens it.

Que So long as hell and Richard likes of m.

King. Say I her foueraigne am her fubicet love.

On Box the new fabrest least fresh forest services.

Qu. But the your subject loaths such sour raigntie, Kmg. Be eloquent in my behalfe to her,

Qu. An honest tale speeds best being plainely told.
King. Then in plaine tearmes tell her my louing tale.

Qu. Plaine and not honest is too harsh a stile.

Kin. Madame, your reasons are too shallow & too quick.

Que Oncomy reasons are too deepe and dead.
Too deepe and dead poore infants in their grave.
Harpe on it still shall still heart-strings breake.

King, Now by my George, my Garter and my Crowne,

Qu. Prophand, difhonord, and the third vfu ped.

Kmg. I weare by nothing.

Qu. By nothing, for this is no oath.

The George prophand, hath loft his holy honour:
The Garter blemisht, pawnd his knightly vertue:
The Crowne vsurpt, disgrac't his kingly dignitie.

If something thou wilt sweareto be believed,
Sweare then by something that thou hast not wrongd.

King. Now, by the world.

K 2

20

The Tragedie Qu. Tis full of thy foule wrongs. Kmg. My fathers death. Qu. Thy selfe hath that dishonord. King. Then by my felfe. Qu. Thy felfe, thy felfe mifuleft. King. Why, then by God. 2 . Gods wrong is most of all: If thou hadft feard, to breake an oath by him, The vnitie the King my brother made, Had not beene broken, nor my brother flaine. If thou hadlt feard to breake an oath by hirth, The emperial mettel circling now thy brow, Had graft the tender temples of my childe, And both the Princes had beene breathing here, Which now two tender play fellowes for duft, Thy broken faith hath made a praye for wormes.

King. By the time to come.

2n. That thou hast wrongd in time orepast,
For I my selfe have many teares to wash.
Hereaster time for time, by the past wrongd,
The children line, whose parents thou hast slaughtred,
Vingouernd youth, to wayle it in their age.
The parents line whose children thou hast butchred,
Old withered plants to waile it with their age:
Sweare not by time to come, for that thou hast
Misused, eare vsed, by time misused orepast.

King, As I extend to prosper and repent,
So thrive I in my danderous attempt,
Of hostile armes, my selfe, my selfe confound,
Day yeeld me not thy light, nor night thy rest,
Be opposite, all planets of good lucke
To my proceedings, if with pure hearts love,
Immaculated devotion, holy thoughts,
I render not thy beauteous princelie daughter,
In her consists my happinesse and thine,
Without her, followes to this land and me,
To thee, her selfe, and many a Christian soule,
Sad desolation, ruine, and decay,
It cannot be avoided but by this:

There

of Richard the third. Therefore good mother (I must call you so) Be the atturney of my loue to her. Pleade what I will be, not what I have beene-Not by deferts, but what I will deferue: Vrge the necessitie and state of times, And be not pecuish fond in great delignes. Qu. Shall I be tempted of the Deuill thust King. I, if the denill tempt thee to do good, Qu. Shall I forget my selfe to be my selfe? King. I, if your felfes remembrance wrong your felfe. 24. But the didft kill my children. Kin, But in your daughters wombe, I burie them, Where in that nest of spicerie there shall breed, Selfes of themselves to your recomfiture. Qu. Shall I go win my daughter to thy will? King. And be a happy mother by the deed. Qu. I go, write to me very shortly. King. Beare her my true loues kille: farewell Relenting foole, and shallow changing woman, Emer. Rat. Rat. My gracious loueraigne, on the Welterne coaft, Rideth a puissant Navie, To the shore, Throng many doubtfull hollow harred friends, Vnarmd, and vnresolud to beate them backe: Tis thought that Richmond is their Admirall: And there they hull, expecting but the ayd, Of Buckingham to welcome them a shore. King. Some light-foote friend, polt to the Duke of North. Ratcliffe thy felfe, or Catesbie, where is he? Cat. Heere my Lord. Kin. Flie to the Duke : post thou to Salisbury, When thou comest there: dull vnmindful villaine Why stands thou still and goest not to the Duke? Gat, First mightie soueraigne, let me know your minde, What from your grace I thall deliver him. King. O true, good Catesbie, bid him leuie ftaight, The greatest strength and power he can make, And meete me presently at Salisburie. Rat, What is it your highnes pleasure I shal do at Salisbury

Kin. Why what wouldst thou do there before I go?

The Tragedie

Rat. Your Highnesse told me I should post before.

King: My minde is changed fir, my minde is changed.

How now, what newes with you?

Enter Darby.

Dar. None good my Lord, to please you with the hearing

Not none to bad but it may well be toid.

Why dooft thou runne fo many mile about,
When thou may ft tell thy tale a neerer may,
Once more what ne rest

Dar. Richmond is on the fras.

King. There let him finke, and be the feas orthim, White livered runnagate, what doth he there?

Da.l know not mighty foveraigne but by gueffe.

King. Well fir, as you gueffe, as you gueffe.

Da. Sturd vp by Dorfet, Buckingham and Elie, He make: for Englad, there to claime the crowne. Kin, Is the Chayre emptiets the fword vnfwaids

Is the king dead? the Empire vnposses?
What heire of Yorke is there sime but we?
And who is Englands king, but great Yorkes heire?

Then tell me what doth he vpon the feat
Dar. Vnicfle for that my hege, I cannot gueffe.

King. V nielle for that, he comes to be your liege, You cannot guelle, wherefore the Welchman comes, Thou wilt revoult, and fle to him I feare.

Dar. No mightie liege, therefore miltrust me not.

King. Where is thy power then to beate him backe?

Where are thy tenants, and thy followers?

Are they not now upon the Westerne shore,

Sate conducting the rebels from their shippers.

Dar, No my good Lord, my friends are in the North.

Kin, Cold friends to Richard, what do they in the North?

When they should strue, their sourraigne in the West.

Dar, They have not bin commanded mightie fourraigne
Please it your Maiestie to give me leave,
Ile muster vp my friends and meete your Grace,

Where and what time your Maiestie shall please.

Kin.I, I, thou wouldst be gone to some with Richmond,
I will not trust you Sir.

You

Der. Most mightie soueraigne,

You have no cante to hold my friendthip doubtfull,

I never was nor never will be falle,

Kin. Well, go muster men: but heare you, leave be hinde Your soune George Stanlie, looke your faith be firme: Or else, his heads affurance is but fraile.

Dar. So deale with him, as I proue true to you. Exit, Dar. Enter a Messenger.

Mef. My Gracious soueraigne, now in Deuonshire,
As Hoy friends am well aduertised,
Sir William Courtney and the haughtie Prelate,
Bishop of Exeter, his brother there,
With many mo confiderates, are in armes,
Enter another Messenger.

Maj. My liege, in Kent the Guilfords are in armes, And every house more competitors. Flocke to their ayde, and still their power increaseth.

Enter another Mellenger.

Mef. My Lord, the armie of the Duke of Buckingham.

King. Out on you owles, nothing but fonges of death.

Take that vntill thou bring me better newes,

Mel. Your Grace miltakes, the newes I bring is good,

My newes is, that by fudden flood and fall of watter,

The Duke of Buckinghams armie is disperst and scattered,

And he himselfe fled no man knowes whither.

King. O I cry you mercie, I did mistake,
Ratcliffe reward him for the blow I gaue him:
Hath any well aduised friend ginen out,
Rewards for him that brings in Bucking ham?
Mef. Such proclamation hath bin made my liege.
Enter another Messenger.

Mef. Sir Thomas Louell and Lord Marques Dorfet,
Tis faid my Liege are vp in arme;
Yet this good comfort bring I to your Grace,
The Britaine Nauie is disperst, Richmond in Dorshire
Sent out a boate toake them on the shore,
If they were his assistants yea, or no:
Who answered him they came from Buckingham,
V pon his partie the mistrusting them,
Hoist faile, and made away son Brittaine.

King.

King. March an, march on, fince we are vp in atmes;
If not to fight with forraigne enemier,
Yet to beate downe these rebels here at home.

Enter Catesby.

Can. My liege, the Duke of Buckingham is taken
That the best newes, that the Earle of Richmond
Is with a mightie power landed at Milford,
Is colder tydings, yet they must be told.

King. Away towards Salisbury, while we reason here,
A royall battell might be wonne and lost.
Some one take order Buckingham be brought To Salisbury, the rest march on with me.

Enter Darbie, Sir Christopher.

Dar. Sir Christopher, tell Richmond this from me,
That in the stie of this most bloudie bore,
My sonne George Stanley is franckt vp in hold,
If I reuo't, off goes yong Georges head,
The seare of that, withholds my present aide,
But tell me, where is princely Richmond now?
Christ. At Pembrooke, or at Hertford-west in Wales.

Dar. What men of name refort to him?

S. Chrift. Syr Walter Herbert, a renowmed fouldier,
Syr Gilbert Talbot, fir William Stanley,
Oxford, redoubted Pembrooke, fir Iames Blunt,
Rice vp Thomas, with a valiant crew.
With many moe of noble fame and worth,
And towards London they do bend their course,
If by the way they be not fought withall.

Dar. Returne vnto my Lord, commend me to him,
Tell him, the Queene hath hartily confented
He shall espowse Eizabeth her daughter,
These Letters will resolute him of my minde,
Farewell.

Exeunt.

Enter Buckingham to execution,

Buc. Will not king Richard let me speake with him?

Rat. No my Lord, therefore be patient.

Buc. Hastings, and Edwards children, Rivers, Gray,

Holy king Henry, and thy faire sonne Edward,

Holy king Henry, and thy faire fonne Edwar Vaughan, and all that have miscaraied, By underhand corrupted, sowle injustice,

If that your moodie disconvented soules,
Do through the cloudes behold this present houre,
Euen for revenge, mocke my destruction:
This is Allsoules day fellowes, is it not:
Rat, It is my Lord.

Buc. Why then Allfoules day, is my bodies doomefday: This is the day, that in king Edwards time I wishe might fall on me, when I was found Falle to his children, or his wives allies: This is the day wherein I wishe to fall, By the falle faith of him I trufted most: This, this Allfoules day, to my fearefull foule, Is the determinde respit of my wrongs: That high all-feer that I dallied with, Hath turnd my fained praier on my head, And given in earnest what I begd in least. Thus doeth he force the fword of wicked men To turne their points on their mailters bosome; Now Margarets curle is fallen upon my head, When he quoth the, shall split thy heart with forrow, Remember Margaret was a Prophetelle. Come firs, convey me to the blocke of shame. Wrong hath but wrong, and blame the deaw of blames Enter Richmond with drums and trumpets. Rich. Fellower in armes, and my most louing friends. Bruild underneath the yoake of tyrannie, Thus farre into the bowels of the land, Haue we marcht on without impediment: And here receive we from our Father Stanley, Lines of faire comfort, and encouragement, The wretched, bloudie, and viurping bore, That spoild your sommer-field, and fruitfull vines, Swils your warme blood like wash, and makes his trough In your inboweld bosomes, this foule (wine Lies now even in the center of this lie, Neare to the towne of Leycefter as we learne: From Tamworth thither, is but one daies march. In Gods name cheare on, couragious friends, To reape the haruelt of perpetuall peace,

By

4 HE LENGULE By this one bioudie triall of tharpe warre, bott and a I Lor, Every mans confedence is a rhouland (words 1) To fight against that bloudie hornicide. 17 15 15 15 2. Lor, I doubt not but his friends will flie to vs. 3. Lor. He hath no friends, but who are friends for feare. Which in his greatest need will thrinke from him. Rich. All for our vantage, then in Gods name march. True hope is fwift, and fires with swallowes wings, Kings it make Gods, and meaner creatures kings. Enter K. Richard, Norff. Raschffe, Catesbie, with others. King. Here pitch our tents, even here in Bolworth field, Why how now Caresby, why lookest thou so sad? Car. My heart is ten times lighter then my lookes, King. Norffolke, come hithers Norffolke, we must have knockes, ha, must we not? Nor. We must both give and take, my gracious Lord. King. Vp with my tent there, here will I lye to night. But where tomorrow? well all is one for that: Who hath descried the number of the feet Nor. Sixe or leven thousand is their greatest number. King. Why our bartailon trebels that account, Befides, the kings name is a tower of ftrength, Which they upon the aductle partie want : Vp with my tent there, valiant gentlemen, Let va furney the vantage of the field Call for fome men of found direction, Lets want no discipline, make no delay, For Lords, to morrow is a bulle day. Exemt. Enter Richmond with the Lords. Rich. The weary Sunne harh made a golden feate, And by the bright tracke of his fiere Carre, Gives fignall of a goodly day to morrow:

Rich. The weary Sunne harh made a golden fease,
And by the bright tracke of his fiene Carre,
Giues fignall of a goodly day to morrow:
Where is fir William Brandon, he fhail beare my flanderd,
The Earle of Pembrocke keepe his regiment,
Good captaine B'unt, beare my good night to him,
And by the fecond houre in the morning,
Defire the Earle to fee me in my tent.
Yet one thing more, good Blunt before thou goeft:
Where is Lord Stanly quarterd, doeft thou know?

Blum, Vnles I have mistane his colours much, Which

Which well I am affur'd I have not done,
His regiment liet halfe a mile at leaft,
South from the mightie power of the king,

Rich. If without perill it be possible,
Good captain Blunt bears my good night to him,
And give him from me, this most needful scrowle.

Blunt. Vpon my lafe my Lord. He vadertake it.

Rich. Farewell good Blunt-

Give me fome Inke and paper in my tent,
lle draw the forme and modle of our battell,
Limit each leader to his feverall charge,
And part in just proportion our small strength;
Come, let vs consult vpon to morrowes businesse.
In to our rent, the aire is rawe and cold.

Enter R. Richard, Norff. Ratcliffe Catesby.

King. What Ba clocke?

Cat. It is fixe of the clocke, full supper time.

King. I will not sup to night, give me some Inke & paper,

What, is my bear easier then it was?
And all my armor laid into my tent?

Cat. It is my liege, and all things are in readine (Te.

King. Good Norffolke, hie thee to thy charge,

Vie carefull warch, chuie truftie Centiaell.

Nor. I goe my Lord.

King. Stur with the Larke to morrow gentle Norffolke.

Nor. I warrant you my Lord.

King, Catesbie.

Rat. My Lord.

King. Send out a Purseuant at armes
To Stanleys regiment, bid him bring his power
Before Sun rifing, least his sonne George fall
Into the blande caue of eternall night,
Fill me a bowle of wine, give me a watch,
Saddle white Surrey for the field to morrow,
Looke that my staues be sound and not too heavy Ratliffs.
Rat. My Lord.

King. Sawest thou the melancholy L. Northumberland & Rat. Thomas the Earle of Surrey and himselfe,
Much about Cockshut time, from troupe to troupe

L 2

Wene

The Tragedie Went through the armie chearing up the fouldiers. King. So I am fatisfied gineme a bowle of whie. I have not that alacritic of fpint," Nor cheare of minde that I was wont to have: Set it downe, Is Inke and paper readie & Rat. It is my Lord. King. Bid my guard watch, leave me. : Ratcliffe about the mid of night come to my tent And helpe to arme me : leave me I fay. Exit Ratiffe, Enter Darby to Richmond in his tent. Dar. Fortune and victorie fit on thy helme. Rich. All comfort that the darke night can affoord, Be to thy person, noble father in lawe, Tell me how fares our noble mother? Dar, I by attorney bleffe thee from thy mother. Who praies continually for Richmonds good, So much for that : the filent houres steale on, And flakie darknelle breakes within the Fast. In briefe, for so the season bids vs be: Prepare thy battell eatly in the morning, And put thy fortune to the arbrittement Of bloudie strokes and mortall staring warres I as I may, that which I would I cannot, With best advantage will deceive the time, And aide thee in this doubtfull shocke of armes: But on thy lide / may not be too forward, Lest being feene, thy brother tender George Be executed in his fathers fight. Farewell, the leifure and the fearefull time, Curs off the ceremonious vowes of loue, And ample enterchange of fweet discourse, Which fo long fundared friends fhould dwell youn. God give vs leifure for thefe rights of love, Once more adiew, e valiant and speed well. Rich. Good lords conduct him to his regiment: He ftrine with troubled thoughts to take a nap, Left leaden flumber peile me downe to morrow, When I should mount with wings of victory: Once more good night kind Lords & gentlemen, Exeme.

O thou whole captaine I account my felfe,

Looke

The Tragedie
Looke onmy forces with a gracious eye:
Put in their hands thy brufing Irons of wrath,
That they may crush downe with a heatie fall,
The vsurping helmets of our advertages,
Make vs thy ministers of chastilement,
That we may praise thee in thy victorie,
To thee I do commend my watchfull soule,
Ere I let fall the windowes of mine eyes,
Sleeping and waking, on defend me still.

Enter the ghost of prince Ed. some to Henry the first.

Ghost to, K. Ri. Let me fit heavie on thy soule to more wy

Thinke how thou stabilt me in my prime of youth,

At Teukesbury: dispaire therefore and die.

To Rich. Be cheerefull Richmond, for the wronged foules.

Of butchred Princes fight in thy behalfe, King Henries issue Richmond comforts thee.

Enter the ghost of Henry the fixet.

Gho, to K. Ri, When I was mortall, my annointed body, J By thee was punched full of holes, Thinke on the Tower, and me: dispute and die. Harrie the fixt bids thee dispute and die.

To Rich. Vertuous and holy be thou conqueror, ... Harrie that prophefied thou shouldest be king. Doth comfort thee in thy sleeps line and florish.

Enter the Glad of Clarence.

Choft. Let me fit heavie in thy foule to morrow,

I that was washt to death with fullows wine,

Poore Clarence by thy guile betrayd to death:

To morrow in the battell thinke on me,

And fall thy edgelesse sword, dispaire and die.

To Rich. Thou ofspring of the house of Lancaster,

To Rich. I hou offpring of the houle of Lancatter.
The wronged heires of Yorke do pray for thee,
Good Angels guard thy battell, line and florish.

Enter the Ghoaft of Rivers, Gray, Vanehan.
Rin. Let me fit heavie in thy foule to morrow,
Rivers that died at Pomfret, dispaire and die.
Gray. Thinke vpon Gray, and let thy foule dispaire.
Vaugh. Thinke vpon Vaughan, and with guiltie seare

Let fall thy lanne, difpaire and die.

. .

· un a lageure

All to Rich. Awake and thinke our wrongs in Ri. bosome, Will conquer him, awake and winthe day.

Enter the Choft of L. Hastings.

Ghe. Bloody and guiltie, guiltily awake, And in a bloody battell end thy dayes. Think on L. Haftings, dispaire and die.

To Ri. Quiet vutroubled foule, awake, awake, Arme, fight and conquer for faire Englands fake.

Enter the Ghoffs of the two yong Princes.

Gbo. to K.R. Dreame on thy coulins smoothred in the Let vs be laid within thy bosome Richard, (Tower, And weigh thee downe to rivine, shame and death, Thy Nephen essoules bid thee dispaire and die.

To Ri. Sleepe Richmond sleepe, in peace, and wake in ioy, Good Angels guard thee from the Bores annoy, Live and beget a happy race of Kings, Edwards ynhappie sonnes do bid thee florish.

Richard, thy wife, that wretched Annethy wife,
That neuer flept a quiet houre with thee,
Now fils thy fleepe with perturbations,
To morrow in the battaile thinke on me,
And fall thy edgeleffe fword, dispaire and die.

To Rich. Thou quiet fou!e, sleepe thou a quiet sleepe, Dreame of successe and happy victorie, Dreame of successe and happy victorie, Thy aduersaries wife doth pray for thee.

Enter the Ghost of Buckingham.

The first was I that helpt thee to the Crowne,
The last was I that feit thy tyrannie,
O, in the battell thinke on Buckingham,
And die in terror of thy guiltinesse.

Dreame on, dreame on, of bloody deeds & death,
Fainting dispaire, dispairing yeeld thy breath.
To Ri. I dyed for hope ere I could lend thee aid,
But cheare thy heart, and be thou not dismayd,
God and good Angels fight on Richmonds side,
And Richard fals in height of all his pride.

K. Richard startesh out of a dreame.

K. Ri. Give me another borse, bind vp my wounds:

Have mercie less : soft, I did but dreame.

O Coward

O coward conscience, how doest thou afflict me? The lights burne blewait is not dead midnight: Cold fearefull drops frand on my trembling flesh. What do I feare my felfe? there none elfe by, Richard loues Richard, that is, I am I: Is there a murtherer here t no. Yes I am. Then flie, what from my felfe e great reason why, Left I reuenge. What my felfe vpon my felfe ? Alacke I loue my felfe, wherfore? for any good That I my felfe have done vnto my felfe ? Ono: alas I rather hate my felfe, For hatefull deeds committed by my felfe: I am a villaine, yet I lye, I am not, Foole of thy felfe speake well, foole do not flatter, My confcience hath a thousand severall tongues, And every tongue brings in a feuerall tale, And every tale condemnes me for a villaines Periurie, in the highest degree, Murther fterne murther in the dyrest degree. All severall sinnes, all vide in each degree, Throng all to the barre, crying all, guiltie, guiltie. I shall dispaire, there is no creature loues me, And if I die, no foule thall pittie me: And wherefore should they? Since that I my felfe, Finde in my felfe, no pittie to my felfe. Me thought the foules of all that I murthred Came all to my tent, and every one did threat To morrowes vengeance on the head of Richard. Enter Rathfe.

Rat. My Lord.

King. Zounds, who is there !

Rat. Ratliffe, my Lord, tis I: the early village cocke: Hath twife done falutation to the morne,

Your friends are vp, and buckle on their armor,

King. O Ratcliffe, I have dreamd a fearfull dreame,

What thinkft thou, will our friends prove all true?

Rat. No doubt my Lord.

Amg. O Ratcliffe,I feare, I feare.

Rat. Nay good my Lord, be not afraid of shadowes.
King. By the Apostle Paul, shadowes to night

I HE I TABLUIC

Have strooke more terror to the soule of Richard,
Then can the substance of ten thousand souldiers
Armed in proofe, and led by shallow Richmond.
Tis not yet neare day, come goe with me,
Vnder our Tents lle play the ewse-dropper,
To heare if any meane to shrinke from me.

Exerce the Lord to Richmond.

Lords. Good morrow Richmond.

Rich. Crie mercy Lords, and watchfull Gentlemen, That you have tane a tardie fluggard here.

Lor. How have you'lept my Lord?

Rich. The sweetest sleep, and fairest boding dreames,
That ever entred in a drowse head,
Have I since your departure had my Lords.
Me thought their soules, whose bodies Richard murthered,
Came to my tent, and cried on victorie;
I promise you my soule is very iocund,
In the remembrance of so faire a dreame.
How faire into the morning is it Lords?

Lor. Vpon the stroke of foure. Rich. Why then tis time to arme, and give direction. More then I have faid, louing corntrymen, (His Oration to The leifure and inforcement of the time, (his fouldiers. Forbids to dwell vpon, yet remember this, God, and our good cause, fight vpon our side, The prayers of holy Saints and wronged foules, Like high reard bulwarkes, stand before our faces, Richard except, those whom we fight against, Had rather have vs winne, then him they follow: For, what is he they follow? truly gentlemen, A bloudy tyrant, and a homicide. One raitde in bloud, and one in bloud established: One that made meanes to come by what he hath, And flaugtered those that were the meanes to helpe him: A base soule stone, made precious by the soile Or Englands chaire, where he is falfly fet, One that hath euer bene Gods enemy: Then if you fight against Gods enemy, God will in inflice ward you as his fouldiers:

If you do (weare to put a tyrant downe,

You sleepe in peace, the tyrant being slaine, If you do fight against your countries foes, Your countries fat, shall pay your paines the hire. If you do fight in fafegard of your wives, Your wives shall welcome home the conquerors: If you do free your children from the fword, Your childrens children quits it in your age: Then in the name of God and all thele highes, Aduance your standards, draw your willing swords For me, the ranfome of my bold attempt, Shall beahis cold corpes on the earths cold face: But if I thrive, the gaine of my attempt, The least of you shall share his part thereof, Sound drums and trumpets boldly, and cheerfully, God, and Saint George, Richmond, and victorie. Enter King Richard, Rat. &c.

Kin. What faid Northumberland as touching Richmond?

Rat. That he was never trained up in armes.

King. He faid the truth, and what faid Surrey then?

Rat. He smiled and faid, the better for our purpose.

King. He was in the right, and to indeed it is:
Tell the clocke there.

The clocke firsketh.

Give me a Kalender, who faw the Sunne to day?

Rat. Not I my Lord.

King. Then he disdaines to shine, for by the booke He should have brau'd the East an houre agoe, A blacke day will it be to some bodic Rat.

Rat. My Lord.

King. The Sunne will not be feen, to day,
The skie doth frowne and lowre vpon our armie,
I would these deawie teares were from the ground,
Not shine to day: why, what is that to me
More then to Richmond! for the selfe-same heauen
That frownes on me, lockes sadly vpon him.

Enter Norffolke,

Nor. Arme, arme, my Lord, the foe vaunts in the field.

King. Come, buftle, buftle, capaciton my horse,

Call vp Lord Stanly, bid him bring his power,

I will lead forth my souldiers to the plaine,

The Tragedie And thus my batteli shall-be ordered. My foreward shall be drawne in length, Confisting equally of horse and soote, Our Archers shall be placed in the midt, John Duke of Norffolke, Thomas Earle of Surrey, Shall have the leading of the foote and horse, They thus directed, we will follow In the maine battell, whose puissance on einher fide Shall be well winged with our chiefest horse: This, and Saint George to boote, what thinkest thou Nor. Nor. A good direction warlike fourraigne, He sheweth This found I on my tent this morning. him a paper. locker of Narfolke be not fo bold,

For Dickon thy maister is bought and fold. King. A thing denifed by the enemie. Goe Gentlemen every man vnto his charge, Let not our babling dreames affright our foules, Conscience is a word that cowards vie. Deuilde at first to keepe the strong in awe, Our strong armes be our conscience, swords our lawe. March on, joyne brauely, let vs too it pell mell, If not to beauen, then hand in hand to hell, His Oration to What shall I say more then I have inferd? bis Armie Remember whom you are to cope withall, A fort of vagabonds, rafcols and runawaies. A scum of Brittains, and base lackey pelants. Whom their orecloyed country vomits forth To desperate adventures & assur'd destruction. You fleeping fafe, they bring you to vnteft: You having lands, & bleft with beauteous wives, They would reftraine the one, distaine the other, And who doth lead them bur a paltrey fellow? Long kept in Brittaine at our mothers colt, A milkelopt, one that never in his life Felt fo much cold as over shooes in snow: Lets whip thefe ftraglers ore the feas againe, Lash hence these ouerweening rags of France, Thefe famisht beggers weary of their lines, Who but for dreaming on this fond exployt, For want of means poore rats had hangd themselnes,

If we'be conquered, let men conquere vs,
And not these busined Brittaines whom our fathers.
Haue in their ownel and beaten, bobd and thumpt,
And on record less them the heires of shame.
Shall these enioy our lands, lye with our wines?
Rauish our daughters, harke I heare their drum,
Right Gentlemen of England, sight boldly yeomen,
Draw Archers draw, your arrowes to the head,
Spur your proud horses hard, and ride in bloud,
Amaze the welkin with your broken states,
What saies Lord Stanley, will he bring his power?
Mes. My Lord, he doth denie to come.

King. Off with his some Georges head.
Nor. My Lord, the enemie is past the marsh,

After the batraile, let George Stanley die.

Advance our standards, set vpon our foes,
Our auncient word of courage faire Saint George
Inspire vs with the spleene of fierie Dragons,
Vpon them, victorie sits on our haires.

Alarum, excursions, Enter Catesbie.

Cat. Rescew my Lord of Norfolke, rescew, rescew,
The king enacts more wonders then a man,
Daring an opposite to every danger,
His horse is sluine, and all on soore he sights,
Seeking for Richmond in the throat of death,
Rescew saire Lord, or essential the day is lost.

Enter Richmond

Kin. A horse, a horse, my kingdome for a horse.

Cat. Withdrawmy Lord, ile helpe you to a horse.

Kin. Slaue I have fet my life vponacast
And I will stand the hazard of the dye.
I thinke there be fixe Richmonds in the field.
Five have I staine to day, in stead of him.
A horse, a horse, my kingdome for a horse.

Alarum, Enter Richard and Richmond, they fight, Richard is flain, then retrait being founded. Enter Richmond, Darby bearing the crowne, with other Lords.

Ri. God and your armes be praised victorious friends,
The day is ours, the bloudie dog is dead.

Par. Couragious Richmod, well hast thou acquir thee, Los

The Tragedie

Loe here this long winrped royalties
From the dead temples of this blondie wretch,
Haue I pluckt off to grace thy browes withall,
Westell, and make much of it.

Rich. Great Got of hemen fay Amen to all. But tell me, is young George Stanley lining?

Dar. He is my Lord, and lafe in Lefter Towne, Whither if it please you, we may now withdrawe vs. Rich. What men of name are staine on either side? Iohn Duke of Norfolke, Water Lord Ferru, fir Robers

Brokenbury, & fir William Brandon. Rich. Inter their bodies, as become their births. Proclaime a pardon to the fouldiers fled, That in submission will returne to vs. And then as we have tane the facrament. We will write the white role and the red. Smile heaven upon this feire conjunction. That long have frownd vpon their enmitte, What traitor heares me, and fayes not Amen? England hath long bene-madde, and scard her selfe, The brother blindly (hed the brothers bloud, The father rashly flaughtered his owne sonne, The fonne compeld, bene butcher to the fire, All this divided Yorke and Lancaster, Divided in their dire divition. O now let Richmond and Elizabeth, The true fucceeders of each toyall house, By Gods faire ordinance conjoyne together, And let thy heires (God if thy will be fo) Furish the time to come with smooth-faste peace. With smiling plentie, and feire prosperous dayes. Abate the edge of traitors, gracious Lord, That would reduce these bloudie day es againe, And make poore England weepe in streames of blouds Let them not live to tafte this lands encrease, That would with treason wound this faire lands peace. Now civil wounds are stope, peace lives againe, That the may long line heare, God fay Amen,

REPRODUCED FROM THE COPY IN THE

HENRY E. HUNTINGTON LIBRARY

FOR REFERENCE ONLY. NOT FOR REPRODUCTION